RENDEZVOUS AT POLE ABANDONED

NAUTILUS' MISHAP ELIMINATES PLANS TO MEET ZEPPELIN

Submarine Is Being Towed To Ireland By U. S. Ship

F R I E D R I C H S H A F E N, June 15.—Abandonment of the plan for a rendezvous at the North Pole between the Graf Zeppelin and the submarine Nautilus was announced today by Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Zeppelin.

The mishap to the motors of Sir Hubert Wilkins' submarine which overtook the vessel in mid-Atlantic yesterday has made it impossible for the two vessels to keep their appointment in the Arctic regions, Dr. Eckener said.

An independent flight to the pole by the Graf Zeppelin, he said, still may be made.

"It is most regrettable, but the rendezvous with Sir Hubert Wilkins is off for this year," Dr. Eckener said.

"Even if the Nautilus is repaired, Wilkins can not make the pole in time. We are ready to start, but it all depends on whether an independent flight is wanted."

Dr. Eckener said the Graf Zeppelin had a very violent thunderstorm during its flight Sunday without discomfort to its passengers who conducted a musical program at the height of the storm.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—"Wyoming towing Nautilus at five knots an hour," the commander of the U. S. S. Wyoming radioed the Naval Communications Bureau at 7:22 a. m. today.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Taken in tow by the U. S. S. Wyoming after being disabled in mid-Atlantic by engine trouble, the polar submarine Nautilus, commanded by Sir Hubert Wilkins, was to proceed today to Cobh (Queenstown), Ireland, a thousand miles away.

The Wyoming, one of four ships which raced to the rescue of the undersea craft yesterday as it tossed helplessly in a heavy sea approximately 500 miles northeast of the Azores and 1,000 miles west of the French coast, succeeded in getting an eight-inch Manila hawser aboard the submarine after hours of strenuous labor.

After properly shackling the tow line at dawn, the Nautilus was to resume its journey in tow of the battleship. Messages received here from the scene stated that the strong wind had abated somewhat and that the heavy sea had subsided.

That the tow-line had been taken aboard the submarine was revealed in a message intercepted by the naval communications station here at midnight. All aboard the submarine are safe, the message stated. The exact position of the submarine was latitude 46.12 and longitude 31.40.

The Leslie and Miss Porter are residents of Cleveland, Ohio. Leslie summoned aid by using his shirt as a torch.

THREE KILLED WHEN TRAIN WRECKS AUTO AT GRADE CROSSING

BODY IS FOUND

Finding of the body of 17-year-old Theima Woods in an abandoned quarry at Lima, O., has led authorities to continue draining the quarry in hopes of locating the body of Earl Truesdale, 20, of Eilda, O., who has been missing since he escorted the girl to a public dance May 30. The girl's body had been weighted down and her hands tied together. A murder verdict has been issued in connection with her death, and police have arrested a former sweetheart of Miss Woods. She is shown above with Truesdale.

DEATH BY DROWNING CLAIMS FIVE LIVES AMONG SUNDAY TOLL

Cool Streams Lure Victims; Sixteen In Fatal List

By International News Service. Cooling streams lure five Ohioans to death by drowning over the week-end, a check-up by International News Service showed today.

A Cleveland youth was struck by lightning, three men and one woman were slain and six persons were killed in automobile accidents, boosting the total of fatalities to sixteen.

Nine-year-old William Hadler was pulled under by the current of the Ohio River near Bellaire when he was unable to recover from an attack of cramps.

When he stepped beyond his depth in the Scioto River at Columbus, Earl Clark, fourteen, was almost instantly drowned. He was unable to swim.

Although unable to find the body, authorities at Cincinnati were convinced that Henry Wakefield, seventeen, lost his life while swimming in the Big Miami River near Elizabethtown.

Jack Roberts, seven, the youngest of the drowning victims, wandered away from his parents in Metropolitan Park at Berea and fell into twenty feet of water, in Rocky River.

Charles Lorkowski, 52, walked beyond his depth in Lake Erie while spending the day with his son. Officials said he might have sought to commit suicide as it was reported that he had been in ill health.

Ten-year-old John Bross was struck by lightning while walking in Edgewater Park in Cleveland with a sister, who was not injured.

Family Wiped Out By Crash Sunday At Spring Valley

An automobile-train collision at the Pike St. crossing in Spring Valley, six miles southwest of Xenia, claimed the lives of a Columbus family of three, including two women and one man, shortly after 6 o'clock Sunday morning.

The dead are: James G. Sheppard, 63; his wife, Mrs. Hattie Sheppard, 59 and their only daughter, Mrs. Helen Kirby, 30, all of 75 E. Tulane Road, Columbus.

Futile attempt of the daughter, driver of the auto, to beat a west-bound Pennsylvania passenger train across the tracks after the brakes on her sedan had failed to hold, was held by authorities to have been responsible for the crash.

The train whistle was shrieking a warning and flasher signal lights guarding the crossing were blinking when, according to an eye witness, a girl standing in front of a filling station near the crossing, the sedan driven by Mrs. Kirby approached the crossing, traveling south at a high rate of speed.

The girl, a tourist who left the scene before authorities arrived to question her, was reported to have said the driver made a frenzied effort to set the brakes on her car about 100 feet from the crossing. The brakes apparently failed to hold, leaving her only one alternative—speeding up the auto in an attempt to cross the rails ahead of the Cincinnati-bound train.

The car had almost cleared the tracks in safety when the locomotive struck the rear of the sedan, turning it around and hurling it against the iron pole of a signal light near the crossing. The car, wrapped around the pole, was reduced to a mass of wreckage, while the three occupants were thrown clear of it. The pole bent but did not snap off.

Partially decapitated and with one arm torn off, the body of Mrs. Sheppard was found in a ditch twelve feet away. The mangled remains of her husband and daughter were tossed west of the crossing. Mrs. Kirby being thrown twenty-five feet. The car, bent around the steel pole, was entirely demolished.

The train, bound from Columbus to Cincinnati, and in charge of Conductor John Brady, Columbus, former Xenian, and Engineer Schott, Cincinnati, stopped a short distance from the accident scene. Mrs. Sheppard's name and address

EXPECT PIT TO GIVE UP BODY

Draining Of Pool Near Completion; Quiz Suitor

LIMA, O., June 15.—Another angle of the mystery surrounding the murder of 17-year-old Theima Woods, whose bruised, rope-bound and stone-weighted body was found at the bottom of an abandoned gravel pit near here last week, was expected to be revealed today.

Draining operations at the pool, which surrendered the body of Miss Woods, were to be completed today at 12:05 p. m. after a fast flight from Rome. He left that city at 5:40 a. m.

James May, 22, former suitor of the girl, according to police, has been unable to supply any information that would help solve the mystery. May told authorities that the last he saw of Miss Woods was at 11 p. m. on May 30 at a dance in Lima.

BUILDING RAZED BY FIRE; BLAME MINE STRIKE DISORDERS

Peace Attempted In Ohio
Fields As Shaft
Reopens

BIG RUN, O., June 15.—The workhouse of the Rail and River Coal Mine, a non-union mine here, was destroyed today by fire which was possibly of incendiary origin, police said.

The blaze broke out about six o'clock this morning. Miners formed a bucket brigade in a futile effort to save the structure.

Clothing and mining equipment which were stored in the workhouse were totally lost in the fire. Mine officials started an immediate investigation of the blaze to determine if strike outbreaks that have embroiled this region for the last week were responsible.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., June 15.—The olive branch of peace was to be borne into the strife-ridden coal fields of southeastern Ohio today, where more than 1800 miners were striking.

With a hope of ending labor troubles that have stirred this region into a cauldron of unrest, disorders and lawlessness, operators of the Clarkson Coal Co., stated they would re-open the Provident Mine today and guarantee workers protection from picketing strikers.

The Provident Mine was one of several that closed down last week under pressure of labor disorders.

Strike leaders, meantime, rallied to spread their battle into the fields of West Virginia.

G. A. R. AGAIN IN CAMP AT COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, O., June 15.—A handful of the robust soldiers who marched away in 1861—now bowed with age and weakened with infirmities—today brushed preliminary aside and started to work on the duties of the sixty-fifth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.

A tree planted in their honor was dedicated with a program of singing and speech-making on the steps of the capitol as the first event on the day's program, after which the veterans went into a series of business meetings that was to keep them busy all day.

More than 2,000 persons were gathered here for the encampment, but most of them were members of the auxiliary organizations, including the Women's Relief Corps—which planted the tree—the Ladies of the G. A. R., the Sons of Union Veterans and the auxiliary of that organization.

To make the encampment less realistic, spring water from Crystal Rock Springs, at Camp Chase, where hundreds of veterans were located during the Civil War, was brought to the meeting and given to any former soldier who requested it.

PRESIDENT ON TRIP; NATION WAITS SPEECH

Plans To Dedicate Tomb Of Harding Tuesday

A BOARD PRESIDENT HOOVER'S TRAIN, enroute to Indianapolis, June 15.—President Hoover was off today on a four-day tour of the Middle West, which, while ostensibly non-political in character, nevertheless has political aspects that will be narrowly watched by those who are already looking twelve months ahead to the presidential campaign of 1932.

In the four days that Mr. Hoover will spend traversing states as far west as Illinois, he will make three speeches.

One of these, in Indianapolis tonight, before the Indiana Republican Editorial Association is distinctly of political nature. He proposes to deal with the economic depression and and business conditions generally—an issue which the leaders of both great political parties privately agree will go far toward determining the result of the election next year. Mr. Hoover plans to discuss it in considerable detail and to defend his administration against the savage attacks that have been launched upon his policies in the past year.

The other two speeches are of somewhat different character. Tomorrow, in Marion, O., he will make the long-deferred dedication of the memorial erected to Warren G. Harding. It is a speech that is awaited with considerable interest in political as well as non-political quarters. Former President Calvin Coolidge will journey from his retreat in Northampton to partake with Mr. Hoover in the dedicatory exercises.

On Wednesday, President Hoover will retrace his route through Indiana to Springfield, Ill., there to rededicate the remodeled tomb of Abraham Lincoln.

The route of President Hoover's train today lay through the Ohio

HELPS GRANDSON; HELD FOR MURDER

HAMILTON, O., June 15.—A 75-year-old man who says he tried to help his 15-year-old grandson when he was attacked today was charged with the fatal stabbing of Adam Haag, 26.

Police arrested William Reed, 75, after a scuffle in which Haag was killed.

In his cell Reed told authorities that Haag came to his home Sunday and started to go away carrying a gun he found there. Reed, 15, pursued Haag, he declared. When the latter turned on the boy, the grandfather said, he interfered.

DIES AT FUNERAL SERVICE OF NIECE

COLUMBUS, O., June 15.—Despite original plans, Jonathan Alban, 65, a retired farmer from Thurman, O., did not attend funeral services for his grandniece here today.

Soon after his arrival at the home of his sister here, Alban suffered a heart attack. He died last night.

Funeral services for the grandniece will follow services for the girl by exactly twenty-four hours.

A son, J. Raymond Alban, resides at Lorain.

TRUSTEES AND FACULTY GROUP CONSIDER MILLER DISMISSAL

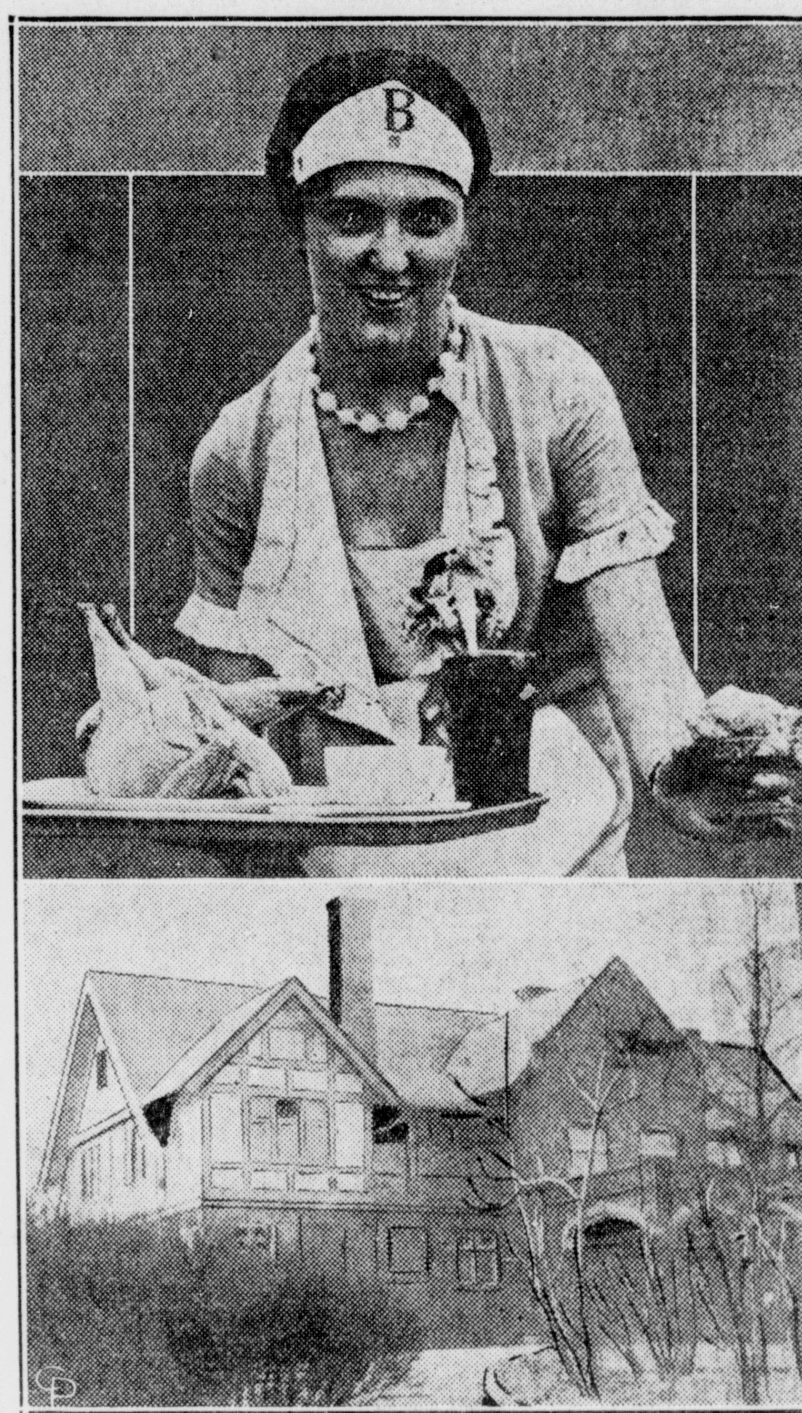

COLUMBUS, June 15.—Trustees and faculty members would insist that Dr. Miller be reinstated, the trustees were reported to be in no mood to alter their stand.

The controversy flamed up anew from the pulpit yesterday when Rev. H. C. Van Gilder of the Central Baptist Church reprimanded other pastors for criticizing the attitude of the board of trustees.

Columbus ministers would do better, he said, to ask the trustees to dismiss others "for the removal or suppression of pagan and anti-Christian philosophies that are a menace to the morals and faith of our youth," he declared.

CHICAGO UNDERWORLD IN PANIC AS WARRANTS ARE BEING SERVED

CHICAGO, June 15.—Government agents, deputies and police today pried into the dark corners of Chicago's underworld searching for the sixty-eight men indicted with Al Capone in a gigantic liquor conspiracy.

Warrants for the sixty-eight named were turned over to Edward King, chief deputy United States marshal, and the final drive on the greatest gangster organization in the country was underway.

King was to confer this morning with Chief of Police Alcock and Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, indicating that whatever information is found in the promised raids will be used to solve crimes which have baffled detectives for the past ten years.

According to word coming from the underworld, the Capone organization is in chaos, its coffers diminished by fines, bonds and replacements for raided breweries. Its morale broken by knowledge that trusted lieutenants may be government undercover men in disguise.

"Scarface Al" himself was to appear tomorrow in federal court to be arraigned on indictments charging him with failure to pay income taxes amounting to more than $200,000 on a net income of over a million for the years, 1924-29. Government agents, on the basis of the indictments returned by the federal grand jury estimate that the gross receipts of the beer business alone of his gang amounted to $200,000,000 in ten years.

When Capone appears to answer the income tax charge he will probably be served with the warrant on the liquor conspiracy indictment although United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson has announced that the income tax case will be completed first.

While reports were heard that Capone would plead guilty on both accusations hoping to arrange for a prison term of about five years, his lawyer, William F. Waugh

Although the report of the governor's change of attitude over the Newman appointment had not reached Dr. John L. Clifton, director of education and chairman of the library board, he told International News Service that "anything may happen" at the meeting.

"The library board won't make any change unless the governor asks it," he said.

Dr. Clifton added that he had not discussed the appointment with any member of the board since the last meeting, when Newman's appointment was re-affirmed.

GOVERNOR HONORED

EXCURSION BOAT IS SUNK WITH HOLIDAY CROWD ON SEA TRIP

Seven Saved; Four Bodies Recovered; City Mourns

SAINT NAZAIRE, France, June 15.—Horror-stricken France today bent every effort towards saving further possible survivors of the excursion steamer Saint Philibert. The maritime prefecture at Saint Nazaire believes that about 445 men, women and children pleasure-seekers were on the river steamer when it started homeward from its little cruise to Noirmoutier last night.

The boat went down in the turbulent waters of the Bay of Biscay five miles off Pornic last night.

The maritime prefecture arrived at its estimate of the lost by checking embarkation tickets.

The Saint Philibert was essentially a boat for river traffic and was licensed to carry 600 passengers on river trips. Whether the boat was overcrowded for a sixty-mile sea trip was investigated by the police.

Only seven survivors had been reported this morning. Four bodies, three of them women's, had been recovered.

The crew of the pilot boat Saint George saw the disaster while cruising near the island of Noirmoutier from which the Saint Philibert was returning to Nantes. They reported that the excursionists, obviously seasick, had crowded to the railing of the Saint Philibert. A sudden blast of wind capsize the steamer, which belonged to the Messageries de Luiguet.

Practically all the excursionists were members of the Workmen's Co-operative Society of the Department of the Loire Inferieure.

More than a hundred others might have perished had they not turned back at Pornic when they saw from the inky blueness of the water that a storm was brewing.

The Saint Philibert, a vessel of 190 tons, was returning when the bay suddenly turned into a raging cauldron. A watchman in the house at the Pointe De Saint Gildas witnessed the disaster and signalled to Saint Nazaire for aid.

At first, he said, the captain of the Saint Philibert flung out a distress flag, but almost immediately afterward a huge wave swamped the vessel. For a moment the bow hovered above the water and then disappeared beneath the white caps.

Tugs immediately put out from Pornic, Saint Nazaire and other towns.

Thousands of Bretons, well accustomed to tragedies of the sea, stood on the piers of Saint Nazaire with heads bowed in prayer.

The port of Saint Nazaire is familiar to hundreds of thousands of Americans who were there as soldiers during the World War. It was the principal port of entry for Americans.

Daughter Of Rich Farmer Suspect In Fatal Shooting

GALLIPOLIS, O., June 15.—A 17-year-old daughter of a wealthy Gallia County farmer occupied a cell in the county jail here today while authorities investigated the death of Owen Hall, 32, son of a former Gallipolis City Manager, who was shot and killed yesterday.

Hazel Dillon, daughter of Greer Dillon, who owns a large estate near where Hall was shot, was arrested and held for investigation.

Bethel Moore, 24, who, officials said, was with Hall and Miss Dillon when the shooting occurred, also was held.

A search for the revolver with which Hall was shot was started by Coroner James T. Hanson. The bullets entered Hall's back and lungs and were fired "by persons unknown at this time," the coroner said.

TWO KILLED AS STANDS CRASH

MEXICO CITY, June 15.—During a bullfight at Nativitas, a nearby town, two persons were killed and a score injured today when a section of the grandstand collapsed.

The matadors were flourishing their scarlet robes before sharp-horned bulls and the loaders prodding their aged nags into action when the grandstand crashed. Women screamed and the whole crowd of spectators became panicky.

In the excitement, the matadors kept cool. They immediately slew the three bulls in the ring to prevent them from making wild charges into the crowd through the hole in the arena caused by the collapsing grandstand.

At Television Celebration

In a two-hour program stage stars and notables of the literary world celebrated the emerging of television from the laboratory to the home at the formal opening of W2XCR, the first sound-and-sight synchronized broadcasting station, at Fifth Avenue, New York. Among the celebrities who took part in the proceedings were Peggy Hopkins Joyce and Ted Cook, author of "Cook-Cooks" (both shown).

It might not have been so hard for the pioneers trekking into the Western plains if they had had many fair feminine charmers like Margaret Young, (above) great granddaughter of Brigham Young, Mormon leader, to represent them as "Miss Pioneer." But if Margaret had lived in truly pioneer days she wouldn't be here now in all her youthful beauty to reign over the covered wagon days festival to be held in Salt Lake City, Utah, July 24, 25 and 26.

CANCELLING THE DEBT

The statement by Mr. MacDonald that he has no intention of calling a conference of the powers interested in international settlements with a view to the mutual cancellation of the World War obligations, should set at rest the idea that the general subject of war debts and reparations might be reopened at this time.

As long as European war creditors insist upon linking Germany's conventional debt to them with their debts to the United States there is nothing to be accomplished by talking cancellation at this time. Congress took the position that the funding agreements with our war debtors were as liberal as the circumstances warranted; and there is no reason to assume that congress has changed its mind. Certainly there has been no change in public opinion in this country that would justify congress in taking any other position than that those countries which borrowed money from us to save themselves from being wiped off the map should repay what they borrowed, according to their agreements.

The situation in which our war debtors find themselves was accurately stated by Alan B. Houghton, a former ambassador to both Germany and Great Britain, a few days ago:

"They pay us nothing. They act merely as transfer agents, and pay us out of the reparations payments they have forced Germany to pay them. The burden of our war debts rests directly upon the German people."

A person does not escape responsibility for his debts to others because someone who owes him money cannot pay him. A nation that owes the United States money ought not to expect it to forgive it its debt just because it cannot collect from Germany. Yet that is the attitude that several of our European debtors are assuming. Although the World War was an European war, which we were dragged into against our wishes, we have been made the object of the most contemptible propaganda regarding war debts that has latterly defiled international relationship. Calling a conference to induce the United States to write of many more of its war credits would be a waste of time.

THE MONKEY LAW

The house of representatives of the sovereign state of Tennessee has just rejected a bill to repeal the monkey law that figured so prominently in the Scopes trial a few years ago. The vote was 58 to 14 against repeal. So be it. One Tennesseean believes he is descended from an ape to four who believe that their mothers are descended from Adam's off rib.

The tendency in other parts of the country to ridicule Tennessee's fundamentalism is not a pretty thing. Other states have their odd beliefs and superstitions. They have people who approach the new moon over their right shoulders, who are afraid to walk under a ladder and who believe that the Democratic party can restore prosperity, as firmly as the Two-Seed-in-the-Spirit Predestinarian Baptists of the Tennessee hills believe that the book of Genesis contains the last word in cosmology. "Uncle Billy" Matthews, when he brought a horny fist resoundingly to his desk and shouted that "if the doctrine of evolution is right, then our Bible is wrong," was not exactly accurate; but that is his story—and he is stuck with it. Other profound thinkers find no conflict between science and Christianity. The point is that the good people down in "the Bible belt" are positive that the Genesis story of the creation is literally and scientifically true—and they are ready to fight for that belief. A weakness of our nation is that it contains so many people who are not willing to fight for what they assert to be right.

On the other hand, a glory of this expansive country of ours is that it has room enough for a state or two that can outlaw the teaching of evolution in their public schools, without contaminating their sister states. The fact that fourteen members of the Tennessee house voted to repeal the monkey law shows that the flame of enlightenment still flickers in the hog-and-hominy state. Some day Tennessee may discover that the earth is not flat; and meantime it is not going to cling to its family tree by its tail.

IT STANDS ALONE

Although the question of the potency of a decision or order made in a divorce case, when an attempt is made to apply it in regions beyond the jurisdiction of the tribunal delivering it, has come up before in this country, the ruling made recently by Justice Louis A. Valente of the supreme court of New York city possibly stands by itself.

Judge Valente has granted A. Wilfred May an injunction which undertakes to restrain Mrs. May from obtaining one of those special get-while-you-stand-in-line divorces which are the fashion out in Reno. He says the document holds in a state other than New York "in such a matter," although at the same time he admits that the lady will be able to get her divorce and get away with it, unless she chooses to visit the Empire state after having defied his ruling. In which case she will be subject to citation for contempt of court.

We have heard of cases in which a divorced person, forbidden by a court in one state to remarry within a certain time, has promptly gone into another state and annexed a new spouse, and has invited legal trouble "back home" by doing so. There have been instances where participants in a marriage of that sort have found themselves bigamists and liable to prosecution in one state, although legal marital partners in other states. But this New York case is a trifle different. And it is more than a little difficult to follow the line of legal reasoning which has brought Judge Valente to the conclusion that he is able to enjoy an individual legally a resident of a state other than his own from taking advantage of the statutory provisions in that state. The ruling is more curious than impressive.

The fish hooks and sinkers are commencing to appear in the display windows, but what's the use if a person can't get a chance to use 'em?

The good people who advocate starting a dry newspaper in New York city must have strange ideas about journalism.

It begins to look as though there might be a serious over-production of Democratic presidential candidates.

Here's hoping that the warm weather will thaw out some of the frozen money.

"OH GIVE ME SOMETHING"

In an effort to discourage the activities of "souvenir hunters" those in authority at banquets, in hotels and in buildings are now developing methods of crime prevention.

Gideon Bibles are oftentimes chained to their tables and caterers at banquets make sure that a fitting memento is presented to each guest. Whereas, in the old days the parting guest took a spoon, now he takes a neatly engraved program or a cigarette box. Or perhaps, a bit of shrubbery.

It has been found also that the roving population of the country can be persuaded to buy souvenirs. A visitor to the top of the Woolworth Building no longer wonders how he can knock off one of the gilded icicles; he merely buys a replica of the entire building. Instead of stealing a stalactite he acquires a piece of stone labelled "Stalactite from Ye House Top Gift Shoppe."

PROVED HIS POINT

Broadway keeps on insisting that Barnum said: "There's a sucker born every minute."

That may have been what the great showman meant to convey. What he actually said was "The American people like to be humbugged."

And to prove it, when he died in 1891 he left $1,271,120.74—a lot of money, even now.

MIXED METAPHORS

Mr. Nye's famous appeal to Congress to "unhorse the barnacles" and "the Senate is an eyecore in the nostrils of the public" were probably inspired by a late lamented Tammany Senator who arose in his place in Albany to declare:

"Mr. Speaker, I smell a mouse. I see him brewing in the air; but mark my words, I'll nip him in the bud!"

The Scarcity of Big Game Becomes More Apparent Every Year

NAVAL EXPERTS AGREE THERE'S BUT ONE ROUTE OPEN FOR LINDBERGH

WASHINGTON.—So many routes are suggested as available for Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh's flight from the United States to the Orient that a really wide choice of courses may appear to the geographically and meteorologically uninitiated to be open to the venturesome couple for their trip.

However, according to navy officers generally, and coast guardsmen in particular, there actually is but one way for them to travel, which is via Attu, at the western extremity of the Aleutian island chain, and Shamstul, at the northeastern extremity of the Kuril island chain.

The various alternatives which are so glibly proposed, while very attractive looking on the map, in the opinion of experienced navigators, are otherwise utterly impracticable.

It is true that these authorities, in arriving at their verdict, assume a flight by the Lindberghs to the westward, dismissing the hypothesis that the colonel will be so rash as to attempt following what dispatches have referred to as "the great circle to the eastward" from the American Atlantic coast to Peiping, China.

Nor do they dismiss it arbitrarily, but for the sound reason, as they point out, that the great circle route (meaning the airline circle from the American east coast to the former Chinese capital) is not eastward, but almost directly over the North Pole. Thus at least 3,500 miles of the distance would have to be flown over vast ocean ice fields or uninhabited Arctic terrain, where the voyagers almost certainly would be lost forever if forced down.

A more southerly eastward flight (along Colonel Lindbergh's trans-Atlantic route in 1927, and thence 4,500 miles across the Scandinavian peninsula, the Baltic, European Russia, Siberia and northern China) would offer fewer perils, it is agreed, but would by no means be the shortest way of getting from this country to the Orient.

Assuming the Lindberghs' selection of the Aleutian-Kuril island route, coast guardsmen best acquainted with conditions in the north Pacific are unanimous in their judgment that the travelers' sole serious difficulty will be with fog—although that, they add, will be had enough.

The sea loop of 600 miles from Attu to Shamstul is recognized as a mere trifle for an airman of Colonel Lindbergh's prowess.

Commander Waishe of the coast guard's Washington staff, who has spent years on Bering sea duty, describes Attu as unprovided with fueling facilities, but explains that they can readily be furnished by the service's cutters in northern Pacific waters, and expresses every confidence that the Japanese will make similar arrangements at Shamstul.

The overseas flight, the commander mentions, could be shortened by about 100 miles, by a northerly detour from Attu to the Kamchatkan mainland, but adds that it would increase the total distance of the Attu-Shamstul jump with no compensating advantage, since the detour would not take the flying couple outside the fog area.

Were shortening the sea hop a consideration, observes Commander Waishe, it could be scaled down to a scant 56 miles across Bering straight, but he takes it for granted that this would be no inducement to the colonel, besides which it would carry the flight into an almost uninhabited Siberian region thousands of square miles in extent, and not even explored except in the sketchiest fashion.

Of the Southern Pacific route, via Hawaii, as an alternative to the Aleutian-Kuril island course, both navy men and coast guardsmen speak as involving virtually impossible non-stop flights beyond Honolulu.

While it is true that the jump to Hawaii has been accomplished often enough to have become almost commonplace, and the feasibility of proceeding thence to the southwestward, over the many groups of tropical islands lying in that direction, was demonstrated by the Kingsford-Smith voyage to Australia, navigators argue that an attempt to reach Japan or the Asiatic mainland from the Hawaiian archipelago would be well-nigh suicidal.

Between Honolulu and Yokohama, as naval officers emphasize, is twice as far as from the Pacific coast of the United States to Honolulu, with the lone stopping place at Midway, which, besides being a speck of about 28 square miles in the midst of the ocean, wholly lacks aviation facilities.

The Aleutian-Kuril island route is not, at any rate, an impossibility to negotiate, the army flyers under Lieutenant Lowell M. Smith proved it in 1924—though they cracked up in a plane doing so.

And of course the Graf Zeppelin accomplished it in 1929—but dirigibles are referred to by aviators as better adapted to groping their way through thick weather than heavier-than-air flying craft, despite their greater susceptibility to damage by storms.

They have both over the North Pacific, sailors remark grimly.

"When it isn't less peasoup," as one naval veteran told me, "it's because the fog is swept away by high winds. The minute the wind subsides, down settles the pea-soup again."

"Still, if anyone can make it, Lindy can."

Children's Headaches Are Serious

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Besides classifying headaches as being caused by many different structures and tissues in the head, they may be acute and sudden, or chronic or occasional.

A person who seldom has a headache may experience one at the beginning of an infection. Indeed, one of the commonest danger signals the body has is a headache. It is a good thing, a warning that something is wrong, that you should go to bed and call a doctor. Thus typhoid fever is frequently ushered in by a headache, as is a less serious disease, tonsillitis.

Children rarely complain of headache, and the symptom is always more serious in children than in adults. It nearly always means the onset of some infectious or contagious disease, such as measles, scarlet fever or diphtheria. A less frequent disease, meningitis, is characterized by a very severe headache; this is natural, since the disease itself consists of an inflammation of the lining membrane of the brain, inside the skull, and such inflammation and the consequent swelling causes pressure on the rigid bony skull, resulting in headache.

The successful treatment of many of these diseases causing headache in children depends upon prompt diagnosis and skillful treatment, and for this reason a headache in a child should always be the signal for prompt action.

Chronic headaches in a child are always of more serious import than headaches in an adult.

Another form of acute headache is what I call the deserved headache. The patient has done something to cause the headache and richly deserves it. A familiar example of this in past times was the morning after headache, the result of alcoholic excess the night before.

But it is not always dissipation that brings these deserved headaches. Excess of any kind resulting in fatigue causes tired nature to fly its warning signal of a headache. A business man forced by some crisis to work hard and late—on his nerve, as the saying is—is, as everyone knows, bound to have what he calls a splitting headache sooner or later. A woman getting ready for a party she is going to give usually ends up the day after the party with the same thing.

Dr. Sansum in California describes what he calls the shopping headache. He thinks it is due to lack of enough nutrition—a woman goes down town without breakfast or without enough breakfast, rushes around for several hours, and comes home exhausted with a headache—an acidosis headache according to the doctor. His remedy is to drink enough orange juice the course of the morning counteract the acidosis.

Should Co-Ed Accept Dates?

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"MY DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I hope you remember me. I am the girl who signed herself W. P. B. I asked you whether I should marry my fiancé before he went to foreign lands for six years or complete my education.

"You advised me to stay in college a couple of years and then follow John. I have carried out your instructions and am here alone. Thank you for telling me what to do.

"Now a new problem confronts me. Here at college few know that I am engaged. If they did I believe it would make little difference to the young fellows who ask me to go to dances, driving, etc. Should I accept them? As I have told you, I am only 17 (tho' most 18), and, of course, like to go places and enjoy myself.

"Always before now John took me to all the dances I wished to attend, and we had good times driving around different parts of the state. However, now that he is not here, I miss these enjoyments. In a way, I dislike the idea of actually going with other fellows while he is away preparing for me to come to him and working hard for our future. But, at the same time, my love of society coaxes to the foreground. What shall I do, Virginia Lee?

"W. P. B."

I think you should have an understanding with your John that you both go out occasionally, anyway, as you are too young to live on your own. The social part of college life is as much a part of your education as your studies, and social contacts for your fiancé in your new home will be part of his preparation for your coming.

You can confide in a few of your college mates as to your engagement; they will probably spread the word, and I am sure it will make no difference to the boys who wish to date you.

Underneath all the fun and the work and worry, too, you will have at school, you will have the sweetness and comfort of your love for one another and the letters that you will get and receive. And the anticipation of your reunion will be a bulwark against the blues.

I do so hope I counseled you right, dear. Let me hear from you again.

BROWN EYES: Don't ask the boy friend for his watch. His mother probably would not like him to let a girl wear it as she gave it to him. Also, don't take his suitcase too seriously. Just have fun as long as it annoys you tell him so laughing. You are very young to have a business of your own. You must be a clever girl.

DEAR MISS LEE: I was reading your column and read what the supposedly dark horse had to say. Well, he is going to get a bit of competition in getting this young lady that calls herself E. C. S.

"I read what she had to say in her letter a short while ago and everything seems to fit to a T. Miss Lee, if you will put this in your column as soon as possible she will be reading it."

"We will, no doubt, if you're the one, meet at the usual place Sunday evening. Generally you have a girl partner with you, if this helps to solve the matter any."

"This may sound unfair, but it either of us is unable to be there on account of those two holidays, sure to be there the following Sunday."

"DARK HORSE NO. 2 W. P. B."

"P. S.: Miss Lee, I know you had better wish me lots of luck because I'm going to need it."

Isn't this an intriguing, fellow readers? The villain is still pursuing our Nell. I take it. But what's it all about I'm sure I don't know, and between you and me and the door post, I don't believe the writers of these mysterious letters do either. They're all "wet," as they say. Anyhow, it's fun to conjecture about it, so I put it in the column, although, Dark Horse No. 2, W. P. B., your letter didn't reach me in time to be printed before the date you mention—either of them, if fact. But good luck, if you need it.

Learn How To Cleanse Your Skin

By GLADYS GLAD

The sage who quipped that, "Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise," undoubtedly knew well enough what he was talking about. But if there is any instance in which it is far from folly to be wise, it's in the matter of skin cleansing. For ignorance of correct skin cleansing methods will result in conditions that, when viewed, will be conducive to anything but blissful emotions.

Those new liquid skin cleansers, in particular, depend for a great deal of their effectiveness upon the manner in which they are employed. Yet, judging from my recent mail, a goodly number of women do not know how to use these cleansers correctly. And, consequently, they fail to obtain satisfactory results from them.

In the first place, if you use a liquid cleanser to remove the dirt and grime from your skin, you can't be sparing with it. You've got to use plenty of fluid. And you should use their effective action the full supply of absorbent cotton. For the most satisfactory method of applying the liquid cleanser is with little pads of soft cotton.

In the second place, one cleansing with the fluid is never sufficient. The cleansing must be repeated again and again until no trace of dirt appears on the pad of cotton. And each little pad that shows any grime should be discarded immediately and a clean one substituted. If you use the soiled cotton a second time you will only put the dirt removed in the first cleansing back on your skin.

Many of the liquid cleansers tend to have a drying effect on skin. But there are also several oily liquid cleansers. These are not effective, but in my opinion are not of much greater value than liquifying cleansing creams. The type of cleansing cream that generally does the best work is the kind that melts to an oil as soon as it touches the warm surface of the face. Stiff, heavy creams that require a great deal of rubbing into the skin sometimes only fill up the pores, and are often of little use except for the removal of surface dirt and grime. The liquifying creams penetrate more deeply and easily into the pores, and do not tend to clog or stretch these delicate organisms.

Wave-Setting Lotion
T. N. T.: Boil one tablespoon of quince seeds in a quart of water and strain through cheesecloth. Add a few drops of alcohol to preserve the mixture, and dilute with water if you think it too thick.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Max Schmeling, present heavy-weight champion of the world, who fights Young Stribling for the title at Cleveland July 3, was formerly a professional strong man—a successful career which the German ended seven years ago.

At that time he knew nothing and thought less about boxing and an altercation in a German beer garden at Mulheim, patronized by actors and boxers, is said to have had much to do with his entrance into the profession of pugilism.

Meandering into the garden one day, Max ordered a scuttle of suds and Germany's national food—a limburger cheese sandwich.

Two cents, possibly a bit "high" after partaking of a few highballs, strenuously objected to Schmeling's nose-annoying sandwich, walked over to his table and told Max to rid the place of the limburger or get hence pronto or they would toss him out personally.

One, a huge colored man, and the other plainly an Englishman, started toward the bar when Max deliberately threw a gluey piece of cheese which struck the son of John Bull on the nose and slipped down his shirt collar.

The colored man, later identified as Rocky Knight, American heavy-weight darter at Max intent on mayhem or something equally unpleasant. The Englishman, a welterweight, named Bombardier Booth, intervened.

Booth then made a proposition. He offered to wager any sum Max would put up, that Schmeling, who was twenty pounds heavier and possessor of every physical advantage, could not strike him once within two minutes, and he (Booth) would move no further than three feet from Schmeling at any time.

Knight grinned and offered to give Max odds of 3 to 2. The German bet all his fifty marks. Max thought the bet a cinch and told Booth he would try not to hurt him. A German kept time.

Fast, big fellow though he is, Max could neither catch nor strike the little fellow, who deliberately stuck his face close to Schmeling's and made him miss by a foot. Max became infuriated as Booth bobbed, weaved, slipped and evaded him easily. The harder Max tried the wilder he got.

Weary and crestfallen as time was called, Schmeling's anger subsided when he discovered Booth and Knight were professional boxers.

Just before they parted, Booth presented Max with a book and told him that if he studied and practiced its contents, he would be able to strike Booth in a few seconds.

It was entitled "How to Box," by Jim Driscoll.

Max translated it and six months later had the satisfaction of defeating Knight. Booth had died of influenza, preventing Max from settling his score with the Englishman.

RAIN WASHES OUT MERCHANTS' TILT

Following their weekly custom, the Xenia Merchants did not play a scheduled game at Washington Park Sunday afternoon. Marking the second straight week the Xenia nine has been idle, a contest with the Dayton Tramps was called off because of rain.

The Merchants will play a two-game series with the bearded House of David team, world famous traveling baseball club, this weekend. Games will be played on both Saturday and Sunday afternoons, starting at 3 o'clock, and Manager Jess Chambliss wants all players on his team to report at the park for practice at 6 p. m. Wednesday.

RED WINGS WIN

Returning to its early season form, the Red Wing Co. softball team of the National League here, scored a 9 to 0 shutout victory over an all-star softball team at Washington C. H. Sunday. Players picked from various clubs composed the Washington C. H. team. Bob Yeakley, who has been in a batting slump this season, came to life and smote a home run, triple and single. Fuller and Wakley hit triples.

AUTOS BOOK LANGS

The Paintersville Famous Autos, with a record of twelve victories, one tie and only five defeats this season, will step into fast company Wednesday evening, playing a game with the Lang Chevrolet, 1930 softball champs of Xenia, at 8:30 o'clock on the Paintersville diamond. The contest will be followed by a lawn fete sponsored by the Ladies' Aid Society of the M. P. Church.

ELEVEN NEW RECORDS MADE AT ANNUAL FIELD DAY EXERCISES

With a hot sun beaming down upon the contestants, 155 boys and 250 girls competed in the approximately seventy-five events comprising the athletic program staged in connection with fourth annual "Field Day" exercises at the O. S. and S. O. Home Saturday.

Eleven new records for "Field Day" were established in the track and field events and swimming, indicating the newly built 440-yard oval cinder track, used for the first time Saturday, will be the scene of many record-smashing performances in years to come when the surface hardens and becomes lightning fast.

The day's exercises were held under auspices of the Grand Voluntary of Ohio, Forty and Eight Society of the American Legion, and the Home pupils competed for prizes valued at $200.

The athletic events, staged in the afternoon, were divided into four classes for both boys and girls, according to their age, the classes being for children 10 and 11 years, 12 and 13 years, 14 and 15 years and 16, 17 and 18 years.

First place winners in each class were awarded bronze medals with contestants finishing second and third receiving ribbons. Cups were also presented to the girls and trophies to the boys who personally scored the most points in each class.

Three meet records were shattered in the class for boys aged 10 and 11, new marks being established as follows: fifty-yard dash, 6.2 seconds, broad jump, twelve feet, four inches; high jump, three feet, six inches. Annon Yeazell won first prize with 2 1/2 points, while Frank Bailey was second with 14 and Harry Andritz third with 12.

Competition in the second class for boys aged 12 and 13 also produced three record-breaking exhibitions. David Deazern, who won first prize with 22 points, set new mark of four feet for the high jump. John McDiarmid, second with 17 points, established a new record of fifteen feet, six inches in the broad jump, while Thaddeus Bailey, third with 16 1/2 points, broke the existing record for the fifty-yard dash, running the distance in six seconds flat.

New records for the high jump and baseball throw were set in the third class restricted to boys aged 14 and 15. Robert Jones, high with twenty-five points, scored the maximum number of points possible. He won the baseball throw, with a record-shattering toss of 235 feet, topped the 440-yard dash in 1:6.6, accounted for the 100-yard free style swim in 1:17 and was a member of the two winning relay teams, the 440-yard running and the swimming teams, Harry Arthur, runnerup for individual honors with 22 points, took first places in the fifty, 100 and 220-yard dashes, while James Shriner, third with 21 points, was first in diving, placed on two winning relay teams and was second twice in swimming events. The new record of four feet, eight inches in the high jump was set by Lawrence Redding.

Paul Long, outstanding athlete in the meet, captured first prize in the fourth class for boys aged 16, 17 and 18 when he accumulated 24 points, taking first places in the 50, 100 and 220-yard dashes, the broad jump and being on the relay team which finished second. Long ran the fifty-yard dash in six seconds for a new meet record, stepped the century in 10.8 over the soft track to tie the institution record and broke the meet broad jump mark with a leap of seventeen feet, ten and one-half inches.

Three youths tied for second place, each scoring twenty points. Murray Jones won the forty-yard free style swim in 2:16 seconds, also the 100-yard free style event and was a member of the winning relay swimming team. Alton Snyder made his points with firsts, seconds and third in the dashes and relays, while William Lee won the 440-yard dash, was third in the broad jump and the hop, step and jump and was on the winning relay team.

Wolfe, Trumphour, King and Schick also performed well in this class, King accounting for the hop, step and jump with a mark of thirty-six feet, ten inches. Bernard McKinnis, cadet major and letter man in three sports, set a new record in the shot put with a heave of thirty-five feet, one and one-half inches. The winning team's time of fifty-two seconds in the 440-yard relay race was considered good.

In the feminine division of the athletic carnival, Esther Hughes was the high point individual in the fourth class, Helen Shriner was the first prize winner in the second class and Kathryn Shriner was pronounced the best girl athlete in the first class. The third class for girls was called off for lack of entries to fill the various events.

Mr. Leham, an official of the Ohio State University, acted as field judge, and other Legionnaires performed in various official capacities. Fred P. Neff, physical director at the Home, was in general charge of the affair.

The morning program, starting at 10 o'clock, was devoted to an inspection of the cadet battalion and cottages with suitable trophies being awarded for the prize company and cadet captain and individual prizes to the three cadets showing to best advantage in competitive drill.

Cottage number 18, of which Miss Melba Ireland is supervisor, was adjudged the prize-winning boys' cottage, the boys ranging from 10 to 12 years in age. The prize girls' cottage was cottage number 2, Miss Lulu Hight is the cottage supervisor and the girls are 12 and 13 years of age.

Company "C" took first prize in the company inspection, Warren Yowell being the cadet captain, Robert Brown the first lieutenant and Lawrence Rhodes the second lieutenant.

Individual awards in competitive drill were awarded as follows: Walter Mills, first prize; Henry Shaeffer, second prize; Samuel Marlon, third prize; Frederick Franks, best bugler.

The battalion inspection was conducted by three army officers, Capt. Dale Thibaut, Capt. Oliver Gibson and Lt. Edward Marsh, assigned here by the adjutant general of Ohio. The three officers also aided the following judges in the cottage inspection: Lt. Perry D. Swindler, military instructor at the Home; Mrs. Effie Wisely, chief matron; Mrs. C. L. Darlington, wife of Attorney Darlington, and former Sheriff Olmer Tate.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 15.—Slightly higher prices were recorded in the early trading today for a few of the popular automobile, motion picture and manufacturing stocks. The rails made an effort to follow through on Saturday's modest upturn, but were held back by lack of buying demand. Westinghouse was the weak spot in the electrical manufacturing group, dropping off 2 points in narrow trading. On the whole, the market was extremely dull and quiet, with professionals guiding the narrow movements of prices.

The Theater

When Sylvia Sidney returns to the Paramount lot after completing the ingenue lead in "Street Scene," she will be reunited with Phillips Holmes for the third time.

"Break-Up," a best seller by Hagar Wilde, has been purchased for these players. The other two in which they appeared together are: "An American Tragedy" and "Confessions of a Co-Ed." Miss Wilde's story has a New York background and dramatizes the effect of a large city on its inhabitants. Being so far in the future no supporting cast or director has been assigned.

Holmes has another picture before "Break-Up," the lead in "The

from New York and prepares the papers. She is now at Universal playing a lead in "The Homestead," which features Leo Carrillo. Her contracts with Paramount will lapse during this picture and Universal will be ethically free to talk business with her. . . . The contemplated divorce of Nancy Carroll and Jack Kirkland was a surprise to Hollywood. . . . Paramount has fifteen brunettes, nine blondes and four red-heads under contract. . . . Lois Wilson is trying to take on weight. . . . There's no depression for actor Robert Emmett O'Connor, who is working simultaneously in three pictures at Radio. He's the fellow who plays the detective parts. . . . Universal is negotiating with Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam for a series of short-reelers. . . . Not to be outdone by her husband, Mrs. Rupert Hughes has written and sold six short stories to be published in a national magazine.

Man I killed." Like many other players who had planned European jaunts and other vacations, Miss Sidney has had to cancel a trip to Hawaii because of her future work. She enjoyed a rest of ten days on a rally.

Foremost among the newcomers in Hollywood is Karen Morley, who supplied a clever bit in "Inspiration" and recently finished her first big part in "Never The Twain Shall Meet." Apparently this "break" has established her, as Howard Hughes has borrowed her from Metro for "Scarface," in which she will play a gangster's moll. Paul Muni is the gangster, Ben Hecht is finishing the dialogue and Howard Hawks will direct.

After a long uphill battle for recognition, George Duryea seems started on a substantial film career. He has been signed to a long contract by Pathe to appear in a series of westerns. This is the lot that introduced him to pictures when Cecil B. DeMille cast him opposite Lina Basquette in "The Goddess Girl." The new pictures are to be old-fashioned action melodramas, designed for the small town exhibitor. Duryea is to be given a new name for the series.

were on luggage tags in the car and Coroner R. L. Haines, James-town, notified Columbus police. Dr. Marshall Best, Xenia, was also summoned.

At the direction of the coroner, the bodies were taken in charge by R. M. Neeld, Xenia funeral director, and removed to Xenia. Coroner Haines conducted an investigation and viewed the bodies at the Neeld funeral parlors. He gave a verdict of accidental deaths.

W. C. Sheppard, brother of James G. Sheppard, removed the bodies to Columbus Sunday afternoon. He said that his relatives had planned to leave home about 4 p. m. Sunday for Cincinnati, where Mrs. Sheppard was to board a train for Birmingham, Ala., to visit her mother, Mrs. Emma Thurston, and brother, Elmer Thurston.

The crash was heard by Miss Frances Grooms, operator of the village telephone exchange, who conversed with the only eye-witness who gave her version of the accident.

Mr. Sheppard was for twenty years an employee of the cashier's department of the F and R Lazzarus and Co., Columbus. He was a member of the Columbus Lodge of Masons, the Scottish Rite and Aladdin Temple Shrine. All three were members of the Crestview Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Sheppard is survived by a brother, William C. Sheppard, 365 Nashoba Ave., Columbus, for many years identified with the Lilly Co., E. Long St., and a sister, Mrs. J. M. Hawley, 95 E. Pacemont Rr., Columbus, wife of a retired Pennsylvania Railroad conductor and former resident of Xenia.

Mrs. Sheppard is survived by her mother, Mrs. Thurston, and brother, Elmer Thurston, an official of the Birmingham Salt Works, both of Birmingham, Ala.

Triple funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday in Crestview Presbyterian Church. Burial will be made in Green Lawn Cemetery in Columbus.

PRESIDENT ON TRIP; NATION WAITS SPEECH

River country. When it arrives at Indianapolis late this afternoon it will have passed through sections of Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana—a daylight ride that affords Mr. Hoover opportunity to view a great section of the country hard-hit by the drought of last year, and a section, too, which visited upon the Republican party severe reverses in last November's congressional elections.

While the first major stop of the train was scheduled for Cincinnati this afternoon, presidential trains rarely escape stopping at stations where inevitable crowds collect and no exception to this rule was expected today. Mr. Hoover will have an opportunity to see and be seen by considerable crowds of people during the next four days.

The present speaking trip is the first President Hoover has made away from the capital since last October, just before the congressional elections. At that time he visited Cleveland, Boston and the Carolinas. His speech in Indianapolis tonight on the business outlook will be the first extensive comment which he has made on this subject since he addressed the American Bankers Association in Cleveland ten months ago. At that time he felt conditions were improving and he called the bankers to stand firm in the economic crisis and to discourage wage-cutting or deflation of labor.

Only a small party accompanied Mr. Hoover on his visit to the Middle West. In addition to Mrs. Hoover, there were Postmaster General Brown, generally regarded as the "political member" of the cabinet, Mrs. Brown, Assistant Secretary of Labor White, and the usual secretaries, aides, reporters and photographers.

Upon reaching Indianapolis late this afternoon, the President will be met by a committee and escorted to the home of Governor Harry G. Leslie, where a reception will be held for the Republican editors of the state and their wives, who are his hosts at tonight's banquet.

MARION, O., June 15.—The home town of Warren G. Harding today restlessly awaited the arrival here tomorrow of President Herbert Hoover and former President Calvin Coolidge for the dedication of the Harding Memorial tomb. which was expected to attract thousands of visitors.

School children, clad in white and singing "America," will welcome President Hoover to the city.

A military escort of several hundred Ohio National Guardsmen also will greet him when he leaves the presidential train.

After the President dedicates the tomb where the former President and Mrs. Harding are buried, the memorial will be formally accepted for the state of Ohio by Governor George White.

The tomb, built from funds raised by popular subscription, was visited by thousands of tourists yesterday.

He sought refuge from the storm under a tree.

A 75-year-old man was accused of the stabbing of Adam Haag, 26, who was killed during a scuffle at Hamilton. Police held William Reed, grandfather of a youth with whom Haag had been fighting, for investigation.

Enraged because, he said, he had been "double crossed" about his room and board, Herbert Frye, 67, shot and killed Mrs. Ella Rose Solley Martin, 34, his landlady, at Cincinnati, according to police.

During a fight with a woman at her home, Frank Mitchell, 28, Columbus Negro, was stabbed with a long knife and bled to death. The woman said she tried to protect herself after she had been knocked down three times.

Owen Hall, 32, son of the former city manager of Gallipolis, was shot in the back at Crown City, on the Ohio River road, in a mysterious slaying. Authorities held Hazel Dillon, 17, and Bethel Moore, 24, who, it was said, were with Hall when he was shot.

Losing a race with a passenger train, all three members of a Columbus family were killed at a railroad crossing in Spring Valley.

Mrs. Helen Kirby and her father, James G. Sheppard, were taking Mrs. Sheppard to Cincinnati where she planned to leave by train for Birmingham, Ala., when their machine was hurled against a signal pole.

While John Harmon, 29, of Gary, Ind., was walking along the highway near Alliance, he was struck and fatally hurt by a car driven by E. A. Allman, Crystal Springs, O. farmer. Allman said he was blinded by light of other cars and was released.

A fractured skull caused the death of Claude Johnson, 37, of Springfield, after a collision near London, O., in which three others were hurt.

Fred Steinmetz of Lancaster, the driver of the other car, his wife, Lucy Steinmetz, and Johnson's wife all were injured.

A Hamilton Man, Frank F. Bruner, died in a physician's office in Cincinnati after his car skidded off the highway near Mt. Healthy and overturned. Robert Herzog, 21, and John Connaughton, 22, also of Hamilton, were seriously injured.

RENDEZVOUS AT POLE ABANDONED

NAUTILUS' MISHAP ELIMINATES PLANS TO MEET ZEPPELIN

Submarine Is Being Towed To Ireland By
U. S. Ship

F R I E D R I C H S H A F E N, June 15.—Abandonment of the plan for a rendezvous at the North Pole between the Graf Zeppelin and the submarine Nautilus was announced today by Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Zeppelin.

The mishap to the motors of Sir Hubert Wilkins' submarine which overtook the vessel in mid-Atlantic yesterday has made it impossible for the two vessels to keep their appointment in the Arctic regions, Dr. Eckener said.

An independent flight to the pole by the Graf Zeppelin, he said, still may be made.

"It is most regrettable, but the rendezvous with Sir Hubert Wilkins is off for this year," Dr. Eckener said.

"Even if the Nautilus is repaired, Wilkins can not make the pole in time. We are ready to start, but it all depends on whether an independent flight is wanted."

Dr. Eckener said the Graf weathered a very violent thunderstorm during its flight Sunday without discomfort to its passengers who conducted a musical program at the height of the storm.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—"Wyoming towing Nautilus at five knots an hour," the commander of the U. S. S. Wyoming radioed the National Communications Bureau at 7:22 a. m. today.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Taken in tow by the U. S. S. Wyoming after being disabled in mid-Atlantic by engine trouble, the polar submarine Nautilus, commanded by Sir Hubert Wilkins, was to proceed today to Cobb (Queensstown), Ireland, a thousand miles away.

The Wyoming, one of four ships which raced to the rescue of the undersea craft yesterday as it tossed helplessly in a heavy sea approximately 600 miles northeast of the French coast, succeeded in getting an eight-inch Manila hawser aboard the submarine after hours of strenuous labor.

After properly shackling the tow line at dawn, the Nautilus was to resume its journey in tow of the battleship. Messages received here from the scene stated that the strong wind had abated somewhat and that the heavy sea had subsided.

That the tow-line had been taken aboard the submarine was revealed in a message intercepted by the naval communications station here at midnight. All aboard the submarine are safe, the message stated. The exact position of the submarine was latitude 46.12 and longitude 31.40.

CHAIRMAN OF BOARD IS AGAIN ELECTED

COLUMBUS, O., June 15.—Julius F. Stone of Columbus, who as chairman of the board of trustees of Ohio State University has been under fire as a result of the discharge of Prof. Herbert A. Miller, has been re-elected chairman of the board, it was announced today.

Although the announcement of this election was made by the trustees without comment, the action here was generally regarded as an expression by the board of confidence in his leadership.

Harry A. Caton of Coshocton, was elected vice chairman, Charles F. Kettering of Dayton, was re-elected treasurer, and Carl E. Stebbins of Columbus was re-elected secretary.

SEVEN SAVED FROM DRIFTING LAUNCH

DETROIT, June 15.—Seven persons, including two small children, adrift in a fuelless pleasure launch on Lake St. Clair for three hours were rescued early today after the signal of one member of the party, who burned his shirt, attracted attention ashore.

Those aboard the craft were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Irving, prominent Detroiters, and their small son, Donald, 5, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leslie, their daughter, Doris, 8, and the latter's nurse, Miss Jean Porter.

The Leslies and Miss Porter are residents of Cleveland, Ohio.

Leslie summoned aid by using his shirt as a torch.

DEATH BY DROWNING CLAIMS FIVE LIVES AMONG SUNDAY TOLL

Cool Streams Lure Victims; Sixteen In Fatal List

By International News Service
Cooling streams lured five Ohioans to death by drowning over the weekend, a check-up by International News Service showed today.

A Cleveland youth was struck by lightning, three men and one woman were slain and six persons were killed in automobile accidents, boosting the total of fatalities to sixteen.

Nine-year-old William Hadler was pulled under by the current of the Ohio River near Bellaire when he was unable to recover from an attack of cramps.

When he stepped beyond his depth in the Scioto River at Columbus, Earl Clark, fourteen, was almost instantly drowned. He was unable to swim.

Although unable to find the body, authorities at Cincinnati were convinced that Henry Wakefield, seventeen, lost his life while swimming in the Big Miami River near Elizabethtown.

Jack Roberts, seven, the youngest of the drowning victims, wandered away from his parents in Metropolitan Park at Berea and fell into twenty feet of water, in Rocky River.

Charles Lorkowski, 52, walked beyond his depth in Lake Erie while spending the day with his son. Officials said he might have sought to commit suicide as it was reported that he had been in ill health.

Family Wiped Out By Crash Sunday At Spring Valley

An automobile-train collision at the Pike St. crossing in Spring Valley, six miles southwest of Xenia, claimed the lives of a Columbus family of three, including two women and one man, shortly after 6 o'clock Sunday morning.

The dead are: James G. Sheppard, 63; his wife, Mrs. Hattie Sheppard, 59 and their only daughter, Mrs. Helen Kirby, 30, all of 75 E. Tulane Road, Columbus.

Futile attempt of the daughter, driver of the auto, to beat a west-bound Pennsylvania passenger train across the tracks after the brakes on her sedan had failed to hold, was held by authorities to have been responsible for the crash.

The train whistle was shrieking a warning and flasher signal lights guarding the crossing were blinking when, according to an eye witness, a girl standing in front of a filling station near the crossing, the sedan driven by Mrs. Kirby approached the crossing, traveling south at a high rate of speed.

The girl, a tourist who left the scene before authorities arrived to question her, was reported to have said the driver made a frenzied effort to set the brakes on her car about 100 feet from the crossing. The brakes apparently failed to hold, leaving her only one alternative—speeding up the auto in an attempt to cross the rails ahead of the Cincinnati-bound train.

The car had almost cleared the tracks in safety when the locomotive struck the rear of the sedan, turning it around and hurling it against the iron pole of a signal light near the crossing. The car, wrapped around the pole, was reduced to a mass of wreckage, while the three occupants were thrown clear of it. The pole bent but did not snap off.

Partially decapitated and with one arm torn off, the body of Mrs. Sheppard was found in a ditch twelve feet away. The mangled remains of her husband and daughter were tossed west of the crossing. Mrs. Kirby being thrown twenty-five feet. The car, bent around the steel pole, was entirely demolished.

The train, bound from Columbus to Cincinnati, and in charge of Conductor John Bradley, Columbus, former Xenian, and Engineer Schmitt, Cincinnati, stopped a short distance from the accident scene. Mrs. Sheppard's name and address

Draining Of Pool Near Completion; Quiz
Suitor

LIMA, O., June 15.—Another angle of the mystery surrounding the cruel murder of 17-year-old Theima Woods, whose bruised, rope-bound and stone-weighted body was found at the bottom of an abandoned gravel pit near here last week, was expected to be revealed today.

Draining operations at the pool, which surrendered the body of Miss Woods, were to be completed and a search of the pit's muddy bottom was to be made to determine whether Earl Truesdale, who vanished with the girl on the night of last May 30, was also a victim of murder.

James May, 22, former suitor of the girl, according to police, has been unable to supply any information that would help solve the slaying. May told authorities that the last he saw of Miss Woods was at 11 p. m. on May 30 at a dance in Lima.

BUILDING RAZED BY FIRE; BLAME MINE STRIKE DISORDERS

Peace Attempted In Ohio
Fields As Shaft
Reopens

BIG RUN, O., June 15.—The workhouse of the Rail and River Coal Mine, a non-union mine here, was destroyed today by fire which was possibly of incendiary origin, police said.

The blaze broke out about six o'clock this morning. Miners formed a bucket brigade in a futile effort to save the structure.

Clothing and mining equipment which were stored in the workhouse were totally lost in the fire. Mine officials started an immediate investigation of the blaze to determine if strike outbreaks that have embroiled this region for the last week were responsible.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., June 15.—The olive branch of peace was to be borne into the strife-ridden coal fields of southeastern Ohio today, where more than 1500 miners were striking.

With a hope of ending labor troubles that have stirred this region into a cauldron of unrest, disorders and lawlessness, operators of the Clarkson Coal Co., stated they would re-open the Provident Mine today and guarantee workers protection from picketing strikers.

The Provident Mine was one of several that closed down last week under pressure of labor disorders. Strike leaders, meantime, rallied to spread their battle into the fields of West Virginia.

G. A. R. AGAIN IN CAMP AT COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, O., June 15.—A handful of the robust soldiers who marched away in 1861—now bowed with age and weakened by infirmities—today brushed preliminary aside and started to work on the duties of the sixty-fifth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.

A tree planted in their honor was dedicated with a program of singing and speech-making on the steps of the capitol as the first event on the day's program, after which the veterans went into a series of business meetings that was to keep them busy all day.

More than 2,000 persons were gathered here for the encampment, but most of them were members of the auxiliary organizations, including the Women's Relief Corps—which planted the tree—the Ladies of the G. A. R., the Sons of Union Veterans and the auxiliary of that organization.

To make the encampment seem realistic, spring water from Crystal Rock Springs, at Camp Chase, where hundreds of veterans were located during the Civil War, was brought to the meeting and given to any former soldier who requested it.

PRESIDENT ON TRIP; NATION WAITS SPEECH

Plans To Dedicate Tomb
Of Harding
Tuesday

A BOARD PRESIDENT HOOVER'S TRAIN, Enroute to Indianapolis, June 15.—President Hoover was off today on a four-day tour of the Middle West which, while ostensibly non-political in character, nevertheless has political aspects that will be narrowly watched by those who are already looking twelve months ahead to the presidential campaign of 1932.

In the four days that Mr. Hoover will spend traversing states as far west as Illinois, he will make three speeches.

One of these, in Indianapolis tonight, before the Indiana Republican Editorial Association is distinctly of political nature. He proposes to deal with the economic depression and business conditions generally—an issue which the leaders of both great political parties privately agree will go far toward determining the result of the election next year.

The other two speeches are of somewhat different character. Tomorrow, in Marion, O., he will make the long-deferred dedication of the memorial erected to Warren G. Harding. It is a speech that is awaited with considerable interest in political as well as non-political quarters. Former President Calvin Coolidge will journey from his retreat in Northampton to partake with Mr. Hoover in the dedicatory exercises.

On Wednesday, President Hoover will retrace his route through Indiana to Springfield, Ill., there to dedicate the remodeled tomb of Abraham Lincoln.

The route of President Hoover's train today lay through the Ohio

HELPS GRANDSON; HELD FOR MURDER

HAMILTON, O., June 15.—A 75-year-old man who says he tried to help his 15-year-old grandson when he was attacked today was charged with the fatal stabbing of Adam Haag, 26.

Police arrested William Reed, 75, after a scuffle in which Haag was killed.

In his cell Reed told authorities that Haag came to his home Sunday and started to go away carrying a gun he found there. Acy Reed, 15, pursued Haag, he declared. When the latter turned on the boy, the grandfather said, he interfered.

"Scarface Al" himself was to appear tomorrow in federal court to be arraigned on indictments charging him with failure to pay income taxes amounting to more than $200,000 on a net income of over a million for the years, 1924-29. Government agents, on the basis of the indictments returned by the federal grand jury estimate that the gross receipts of the beer business alone of his gang amounted to $200,000,000 in ten years.

When Capone appears to answer the income tax charge he will probably be served with the warrant on the liquor conspiracy indictment although United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson has announced that the income tax case will be completed first.

While reports were heard that Capone would plead guilty on both accusations hoping to arrange for a prison term of about five years, his lawyer, William F. Vaughn at Lorain.

CHICAGO UNDERWORLD IN PANIC AS WARRANTS ARE BEING SERVED

CHICAGO, June 15.—Government agents, deputies and police today pried into the dark corners of Chicago's underworld searching for the sixty-eight men indicted with Al Capone in a gigantic liquor conspiracy.

Warrants for the sixty-eight named were turned over to Edward King, chief deputy United States marshal, and the final drive on the greatest gangster organization in the country was underway.

King was to confer this morning with Chief of Police Alcock and Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, indicating that whatever information is found in the promised raids will be used to solve crimes which have baffled detectives for the past ten years.

According to word coming from the underworld, the Capone organization is in chaos, its coffers diminished by fines, bonds and replacements for raised breweries, its morale broken by knowledge that trusted lieutenants may be government undercover men in disguise.

"Scarface Al" himself was to appear tomorrow in federal court to be arraigned on indictments charging him with failure to pay income taxes amounting to more than $200,000 on a net income of over a million for the years, 1924-29. Although the report of the governor's change of attitude over the Newman appointment had not reached Dr. John L. Clifton, director of education and chairman of the library board, he told International News Service that "anything may happen" at the meeting.

"The library board won't make any change unless the governor asks it," he said.

Dr. Clifton added that he had not discussed the appointment with any member of the board since the last meeting, when Newman's appointment was re-affirmed.

EXCURSION BOAT IS SUNK WITH HOLIDAY CROWD ON SEA TRIP

Seven Saved; Four Bodies
Recovered; City
Mourns

SAINT NAZAIRE, France, June 15.—Horror-stricken France today bent every effort towards saving further possible survivors of the excursion steamer Saint Philibert. The maritime prefecture at Saint Nazaire believes that about 445 men, women and children pleasure-seekers were on the river steamer when it started homeward from its little cruise to Noirmoutier last night.

The boat went down in the turbulent waters of the Bay of Biscay five miles off Pornic last night.

The maritime prefecture arrived at its estimate of the lost by checking embarkation tickets.

The Saint Philibert was essentially a boat for river traffic and was licensed to carry 600 passengers on river trips. Whether the boat was overcrowded for a sixty-mile sea trip was investigated by the police.

Only seven survivors had been reported this morning. Four bodies, three of them women's, had been recovered.

The crew of the pilot boat Saint George saw the disaster while cruising near the Island of Noirmoutier from which the Saint Philibert was returning to Nantes. They reported that the excursionists, obviously seasick, had crowded to the railing of the Saint Philibert. A sudden blast of wind capsize the steamer, which belonged to the Messageries de L'Ouest.

Practically all the excursionists were members of the Workmen's Co-operative Society of the Department of the Loire Inferieure.

More than a hundred others might have perished had they not turned back at Pornic when they saw from the inky blueness of the water that a storm was brewing.

The Saint Philibert, a vessel of 190 tons, was returning when the bay suddenly turned into a raging cauldron. A watcher in the light house at the Pointe de Saint Gildas witnessed the disaster and signaled to Saint Nazaire for aid.

At first, he said, the captain of the Saint Philibert flung out a distress flag, but almost immediately afterward a huge wave swamped the vessel. For a moment the bow hovered above the water and then disappeared beneath the white caps.

Boats immediately put out from Pornic, Saint Nazaire and other towns.

Thousands of Bretons, well accustomed to tragedies of the sea, stood on the piers of Saint Nazaire with heads bowed in prayer.

The port of Saint Nazaire is familiar to hundreds of thousands of Americans who were there as soldiers during the World War. It was the principal port of entry for Americans.

HOLD GIRL FOR MURDER PROBE

Daughter Of Rich
Farmer Suspect In Fatal Shooting

GALLIPOLIS, O., June 15.—A 17-year-old daughter of a wealthy Gallia County farmer occupied a cell in the county jail here today while authorities investigated the death of a Gallia County City Manager, who was shot and killed yesterday.

Hazel Dillon, daughter of Greer Dillon, who owns a large estate near where Hall was shot, was arrested and held for investigation. Bethel Moore, 24, who, officials said, was with Hall and Miss Dillon when the shooting occurred, also was held.

A search for the revolver with which Hall was shot was started by Coroner James T. Hanson. The bullets entered Hall's back and lungs and were fired "by persons unknown at this time," the coroner said.

TWO KILLED AS STANDS CRASH

MEXICO CITY, June 15.—During a bullfight at Navitas, a nearby town, two persons were killed and a score injured today when a section of the grandstand collapsed.

The matadors were flourishing their scarlet robes before sharp-horned bulls and the crowd, when the grandstand crashed. Women screamed and the whole crowd of spectators became panicky.

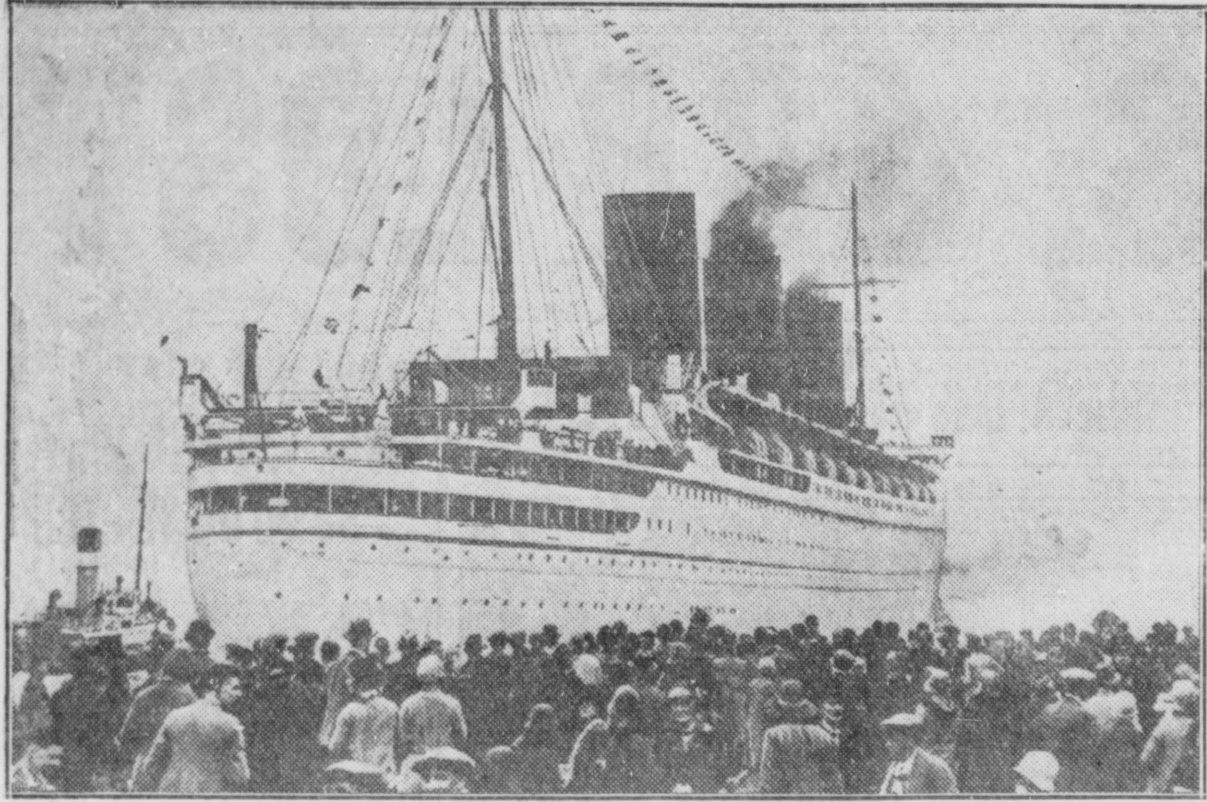

In the excitement, the matadors kept cool. They immediately slew the three bulls in the ring to prevent them from making wild charges into the crowd through the holes in the arena caused by the collapsing grandstand.

Y., lost his life. "Miss Pioneer"

It might not have been so hard for the pioneers trekking into the Western plains if they had had many fair feminine charmers like Margaret Young, (above) great great granddaughter of Brigham Young, Mormon leader, to represent them as "Miss Pioneer." But if Margaret had lived in truly pioneer days she wouldn't be here now in all her youthful beauty to reign over the covered wagon days festival to be held in Salt Lake City, Utah, July 24, 25 and 26.

NEARLY BACKS AUTO FROM VIADUCT; TWO FINED, SENTENCED

Six inches separated an auto occupied by a man and woman from plunging off the Monroe St. viaduct and down an almost perpendicular embankment to the railroad tracks about 2 o'clock Monday morning.

Police, who arrested the woman driver on a charge of operating an auto while intoxicated, and her male companion on a charge of drunkenness, reported the woman had almost backed the car over the embankment.

Arraigned before Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Monday morning, the woman, Marie Legge, 24, unmarried, who first gave her residence as Circleville and later as Wilmington, pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to thirty days in jail and her driving rights were revoked for six months.

Her companion, William Good-year, 55, R. R. No. 1, London, described by police as "very intoxicated," pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was fined $50 and costs. In default of payment he was sent to jail. The woman gave her occupation as a domestic.

CANCELLING THE DEBT

The statement by Mr. MacDonald that he has no intention of calling a conference of the powers interested in international settlements with a view to the mutual cancellation of the World War obligations, should set at rest the idea that the general subject of war debts and reparations might be reopened at this time.

As long as European war creditors insist upon linking Germany's conventional debt to them with their debts to the United States there is nothing to be accomplished by talking cancellation at this time. Congress took the position that the funding agreements with our war debtors were as liberal as the circumstances warranted; and there is no reason to assume that congress has changed its mind. Certainly there has been no change in public opinion in this country that would justify congress in taking any other position than that those countries which borrowed money from us to save themselves from being wiped off the map should repay what they borrowed, according to their agreements.

The situation in which our war debtors find themselves was accurately stated by Alanson B. Houghton, a former ambassador to both Germany and Great Britain, a few days ago:

"They pay us nothing. They act merely as transfer agents, and pay us out of the reparations payments they have forced Germany to pay them. The burden of our war debts rests directly upon the German people."

A person does not escape responsibility for his debts to others because someone who owes him money cannot pay him. A nation that owes the United States money ought not to expect it to forgive it its debt just because it cannot collect from Germany. Yet that is the attitude that several of our European debtors are assuming. Although the World War was an European war, which we were dragged into against our wishes, we have been made the object of the most contemptible propaganda regarding war debts that has latterly defiled international relationship. Calling a conference to induce the United States to write of any more of its war credits would be a waste of time.

THE MONKEY LAW

The house of representatives of the sovereign state of Tennessee has just rejected a bill to repeal the monkey law that figured so prominently in the Scopes trial a few years ago. The vote was 58 to 14 against repeal. So be it. One Tennesseean believes he is descended from an ape to four who believe that their mothers are descended from Adam's off rib.

The tendency in other parts of the country to ridicule Tennessee's fundamentalism is not a pretty thing. Other states have their odd beliefs and superstitions. They have people who approach the new moon over their right shoulders, who are afraid to walk under a ladder and who believe that the Democratic party can restore prosperity, as firmly as the Two-Seed-in-the-Spirit Predestinarian Baptists of the Tennessee hills believe that the book of Genesis contains the last word in cosmology. "Uncle Billy" Matthews, when he brought a horny fist resoundingly to his desk and shouted that "if the doctrine of evolution is right, then our Bible is wrong," was not exactly accurate; but that is his story—and he is stuck with it. Other profound thinkers find no conflict between science and Christianity. The point is that the good people down in "the Bible belt" are positive that the Genesis story of the creation is literally and scientifically true—and they are ready to fight for that belief. A weakness of our nation is that it contains so many people who are not willing to fight for what they assert to be right.

On the other hand, a glory of this expansive country of ours is that it has room enough for a state or two that can outlaw the teaching of evolution in their public schools, without contaminating their sister states. The fact that fourteen members of the Tennessee house voted to repeal the monkey law shows that the flame of enlightenment still flickers in the hog-and-hominy state. Some day Tennessee may discover that the earth is not flat; and meantime it is not going to cling to its family tree by its tail.

IT STANDS ALONE

Although the question of the potency of a decision or order made in a divorce case, when an attempt is made to apply it in regions beyond the jurisdiction of the tribunal delivering it, has come up before in this country, the ruling made recently by Justice Louis A. Valentine of the supreme court of New York city possibly stands by itself.

Judge Valentine has granted A. Wilfred May an injunction which undertakes to restrain Mrs. May from obtaining one of those special, get-while-you-stand-in-line divorces which are the fashion out in Reno. He says the document holds in a state other than New York "in such a matter," although at the same time he admits that the lady will be able to get her divorce and get away with it, unless she chooses to visit the Empire state after having defied his ruling. In which case she will be subject to citation for contempt of court.

We have heard of cases in which a divorced person, forbidden by a court in one state to remarry within a certain time, has promptly gone into another state and annexed a new spouse, and has invited legal trouble "back home" by doing so. There have been instances where participants in a marriage of that sort have found themselves bigamists and liable to prosecution in one state, although legal marital partners in other states. But this New York case is a trifle different. And it is more than a little difficult to follow the line of legal reasoning which has brought Judge Valentine to the conclusion that he is able to enjoin an individual legally a resident of a state other than his own from taking advantage of the statutory provisions in that state. The ruling is more curious than impressive.

The fish hooks and sinkers are commencing to appear in the display windows, but what's the use if a person can't get a chance to use em?

The good people who advocate starting a dry newspaper in New York city must have strange ideas about journalism.

It begins to look as though there might be a serious over-production of Democratic presidential candidates.

Here's hoping that the warm weather will thaw out some of the frozen money.

"OH GIVE ME SOMETHING"

In an effort to discourage the activities of "souvenir hunters" those in authority at banquets, in hotels and in buildings are now developing methods of crime prevention. Gideon Bibles are oftentimes chained to their tables and caterers at banquets make sure that a fitting memento is presented to each guest. Whereas, in the old days the parting guest took a spoon, now he takes a neatly engraved program or a cigarette box. Or perhaps, a bit of shrunken baby.

It has been found that the roving population of the country can be persuaded to buy souvenirs. A visitor to the top of the Woolworth Building no longer wonders how he can knock off one of the gilded icicles; he merely buys a replica of the entire building. Instead of stealing a statuette he acquires a piece of stone labelled "Statuette from Ye House Top Gift Shoppe."

PROVED HIS POINT

Broadway keeps on insisting that Barnum said: "There's a sucker born every minute." That may have been what the great showman meant to convey. What he actually said was "The American people like to be humbugged."

And to prove it, when he died in 1891 he left $1,271,120.74—a lot of money, even now.

MIXED METAPHORS

Mr. Nye's famous appeal to Congress to "unhorse the barnacles" and the Tennessee editor's remark that "the Senate is an eyesore in the nostrils of the public" were probably inspired by a late lamented Tammany Senator who arose in his place in Albany to declare:

"Mr. Speaker, I smell a mouse. I see him brewing in the air; but mark my words, I'll nip him in the bud!"

The Scarcity of Big Game Becomes More Apparent Every Year

NAVAL EXPERTS AGREE THERE'S BUT ONE ROUTE OPEN FOR LINDBERGH'S

WASHINGTON.—So many routes are suggested as available for Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh's flight from the United States to the Orient that a really wide choice of courses may appear to the geographically and meteorologically uninitiated to be open to the venturesome couple for their trip.

However, according to navy officers generally, and coast guardsmen in particular, there actually is but one way for them to travel, which is via Attu, at the westerly extremity of the Aleutian island chain, and Shamstul, at the northeasterly extremity of the Kuril island chain.

The various alternatives which are so glibly proposed, while very attractive looking on the map, in the opinion of experienced navigators, are otherwise utterly impracticable.

It is true that these authorities, in arriving at their verdict, assume a flight by the Lindberghs to the westward, dismissing the hypothesis that the colonel will be so rash as to attempt following what dispatches have referred to as "the great circle to the eastward" from the American Atlantic coast to Peking, China.

Nor do they dismiss it arbitrarily, but for the sound reason, as they point out, that the great circle route (meaning the airline circuit) from the American eastern littoral to the former Chinese capital is not eastward, but almost directly over the North Pole. Thus at least 3,500 miles of the distance would have to be flown over vast ocean ice fields or uninhabited Arctic terrain, where the voyagers almost certainly would be lost forever if forced down.

A more southerly eastward flight (along Colonel Lindbergh's trans-Atlantic route in 1927, and thence 4,500 miles across the Scandinavian peninsula, the Baltic, European Russia, Siberia and northern China) would offer fewer perils, it is agreed, but would by no means be the shortest way of getting from this country to the Orient.

Assuming the Lindberghs' selection of the Aleutian-Kuril island route, coast guardsmen best acquainted with conditions in the north Pacific are unanimous in their judgment that the travelers' sole serious difficulty will be with fog—although that, they add, will be bad enough.

The sea loop of 600 miles from Attu to Shamstul is recognized as a mere trifle for an airman of Colonel Lindbergh's prowess.

Commander Wainwright of the coast guard's Washington staff, who has spent years on Bering sea duty, describes Attu as unprovided with fueling facilities, but explains that they can be readily be furnished by the service's cutters in northern Pacific waters, and expresses every confidence that the Japanese will make similar arrangements at Shamstul.

The overseas flight, the commander mentions, could be shortened by about 100 miles, by a northerly detour from Attu to the Kamchatkan mainland, but adds that it would increase the total distance of the Attu-Shamstul jump with no compensating advantage, since the detour would not take the flying couple outside the fog area.

Were shortening the sea hop a consideration, observes Commander Wainwright, it could be scaled down to a scant 95 miles across Bering straight, but he takes it for granted that this would be no inducement to the colonel, besides which it would carry the flight into an almost uninhabited Siberian region thousands of square miles in extent, and not even explored except in the sketchiest fashion.

While it is true that the jump via Hawaii, as an alternative to the Aleutian-Kuril island course, both navy men and coast guardsmen speak as involving virtually impossible non-stop flights beyond Honolulu.

Of the Southern Pacific route, via Hawaii, as an alternative to the Aleutian-Kuril island course, both navy men and coast guardsmen speak as involving virtually impossible non-stop flights beyond Honolulu.

While it is true that the jump via Hawaii has been accomplished often enough to have become almost commonplace, and the feasibility of proceeding thence to the southwestward, over the many groups of tropical islands lying in that direction, was demonstrated by the Kingsford-Smith voyage to Australia, navigators argue that an attempt to reach Japan or the Asiatic mainland from the Hawaiian archipelago would be well-nigh suicidal.

Between Honolulu and Yokohama, as naval officers emphasize, is twice as far as from the Pacific coast of the United States to Honolulu, with the lone stopping place at Midway, which, besides being a speck of about 28 square miles in the midst of the ocean, wholly lacks aviation facilities.

The Aleutian-Kuril island route is not, at any rate, an impossibility to negotiate; the army flyers under Lieutenant Lowell M. Smith proved it in 1924—though they cracked up in a plane doing so.

And of course the Graf Zeppelin accomplished it in 1929—but dirigibles are referred to by aviators as better adapted to groping their way through thick weather than heavier-than-air flying craft, despite their greater susceptibility to damage by storms.

They have both over the North Pacific, sailors remark grimly. "When it isn't like peasoup," as one naval veteran told me, "it's because the fog is swept away by high winds. The minute the wind subsides, down settles the pea-soup again."

"Still, if anyone can make it, Lindy can."

Children's Headaches Are Serious

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Besides classifying headaches as being caused by many different structures and tissues in the head, they may be acute and sudden, or chronic or occasional.

A person who seldom has a headache may experience one at the beginning of an infection. Indeed, one of the commonest danger signs of the body has a headache. It is a good thing, a warning that something is wrong, that you should go to bed and call a doctor. Thus typhoid fever is frequently ushered in by a headache, as is a less serious disease, tonsillitis.

Children rarely complain of headache, and the symptom is always more serious in children than in adults. It nearly always means the onset of some infectious or contagious disease, such as measles, scarlet fever or diphtheria. A less frequent disease, meningitis, is characterized by a very severe headache; this is natural, since the disease itself consists of an inflammation of the lining membrane of the brain, inside the skull, and such inflammation and the consequent swelling causes pressure on the rigid bony skull, resulting in headache.

The successful treatment of many of these diseases causing headache in children depends upon prompt diagnosis and skillful treatment, and for this reason a headache in a child should always be the signal for prompt action.

Chronic headaches in a child are always of more serious import than headaches in an adult.

Another form of acute headache is what I call the deserved headache. The patient has done something to cause the headache and richly deserves it. A familiar example of this in past times was the morning after headache, the result of alcoholic excess the night before.

But it is not always dissipation that brings these deserved headaches. Excess of any kind resulting in fatigue causes tired nature to give its warning signal of a headache. A business man forced by some crisis to work hard and late—on his nerve, as the saying is—so everyone knows, bound to have what he calls a splitting headache sooner or later. A woman getting ready for a party she is going to give usually ends up the day after the party with the same thing.

Dr. Sansum in California describes what he calls the shopping headache. He thinks it is due to lack of enough nutrition—a woman goes down town without breakfast or without enough breakfast, rushes around for several hours, and comes home exhausted with a headache—an acidosis headache according to the doctor. His remedy is to drink enough orange juice the course of the morning to counteract the acidosis.

Editor's Note: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth Street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Should Co-Ed Accept Dates?

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"MY DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I hope you remember me. I am the girl who signed herself W. P. B. I asked you whether I should marry my fiance before he went to foreign lands for six years or complete my education.

"You advised me to stay in college a couple of years and then follow John. I have carried out your instructions and am here alone. Thank you for telling me what to do."

"Now a new problem confronts me. Here at college few know that I am engaged. If they did I believe it would make little difference to the young fellows who ask me to go to dances, driving, etc. Should I accept them? As I have told you, I am only 17 (tho' most 18), and of course, like to go places and enjoy myself."

"Always before now John took me to all the dances I wished to attend, and we had good times driving around different parts of the state. However, now that he is not here, I miss these enjoyments. In a way, I dislike the idea of actually going with other fellows while he is away preparing for me to come to him and working hard for our future. But, at the same time, my love of society comes to the foreground. What shall I do, Virginia Lee?"

"W. P. B."

I think you should have an understanding with your John that you, both go out occasionally, anyway, as you are too young to live retired lives. The social part of college life is as much a part of your education as your studies, and social contacts for your fiance in your new home will be part of his preparation for your coming.

You can confide in a few of your college mates as to your engagement; they will probably spread the word, and I am sure it will make no difference to the boys who wish to date you.

Underneath all the fun and the work and worry, too, you will have at school, you will have the sweetness and comfort of your love for one another and the letters that you will get and receive. And the anticipation of your reunion will be a bulwark against the blues. I do so hope I counseled you right, dear. Let me hear from you again.

BROWN EYES: Don't ask the boy friend for his watch. His mother probably would not like him to let a girl wear it as she gave it to him. Also, don't take his silliness too seriously. Just have fun and if it annoys you tell him so laughingly. You are very young to have a business of your own. You must be a clever girl.

DEAR MISS LEE: I was reading your column and read what the supposedly dark horse had to say. Well, he is going to get a bit of competition in getting this young lady that calls herself E. C. S.

"I read what she had to say in her letter a short while ago and everything seems to fit. T. Miss Lee, if you will put it in your column as soon as possible she will be reading it."

"We will, no doubt, if you're one, meet at the usual place Sunday evening. Generally you have a girl partner with you, if this helps to solve the matter any."

"This may sound unfair, but I either of us is unable to be there on account of those two holidays, be sure to be there the following Sunday."

"DARK HORSE NO. 2 W. P. B."

P. S.: Miss Lee, I know you had better wish me lots of luck because I wish to need it."

Isn't this all intriguing, fellow readers? The villain is still pursuing our Nell. I take it. But what's it all about I'm sure I don't know, and between you and me and the door post, I don't believe the writers of these mysterious letters go either. They're all "wells," as they say. Anyhow, it's fun to conjecture about it, so I put it in the column, although, Dark Horse No. 2 W. P. B., your letter didn't reach me in time to be printed before the date you mention—either of them, in fact. But good luck, if you need it.

Learn How To Cleanse Your Skin

By GLADYS GLAD

The sage who blipped, "Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise," undoubtedly knew well enough what he was talking about. But if there is any instance in which it is far from folly to be wise, it's in the matter of skin cleansing. For ignorance of correct skin cleansing methods will result in conditions that, when viewed, will be conducive to anything but blissful emotions.

Those new liquid skin cleansers, in particular, depend for a great deal of their effectiveness upon the manner in which they are employed. Yet, judging from my recent mail, a goodly number of women do not know how to use these cleansers correctly. And, consequently, they fail to obtain satisfactory results from them.

In the first place, if you use a liquid cleanser to remove the dirt and grime from your skin, you can't be sparing with it. You've got to use plenty of fluid, and you should also have on hand a plentiful supply of absorbent cotton. For the most satisfactory method of applying the liquid cleanser is with little pads of soft cotton.

In the second place, one cleansing with the fluid is never sufficient. The cleansing must be repeated again and again until no trace of dirt appears on the pad of cotton. And each little pledge that shows any grime should be discarded immediately and a clean one substituted. If you use the soiled cotton a second time you will only put the dirt removed in the first cleansing back on your skin.

Many of the liquid cleansers tend to have a drying effect on skin. But there are also several oily liquid cleansers. These are not effective, but in my opinion are not of much greater value than liquidifying cleansing creams. The type of cleansing cream that generally does the best work is the kind that melts to an oil as soon as it touches the warm surface of the face. Stiff, heavy creams that require a great deal of rubbing into the skin sometimes only fill up the pores, and are often of little use except for the removal of surface dirt and grime. The liquidifying creams penetrate more deeply and easily into the pores, and do not tend to clog or stretch these delicate organs.

Skin Bleach
Wondering: The proportions of the bleach you inquire about are correct. You may use it twice daily if you wish. Apply a bit of cold cream after use to counteract any drying effects.

Wave-Setting Lotion
T. N. T.: Boil one tablespoon of quince seeds in a quart of water and strain through cheesecloth. Add a few drops of alcohol to preserve the mixture, and dilute with water if you think it too thick.

EDITOR'S NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin for each, to cover cost of printing and handling. Max Schmeling, present heavy-weight champion of the world, who fights Young Stribling for the title at Cleveland July 3, was formerly a professional strong man—a successful career which the German ended seven years ago.

At that time he knew nothing and thought less about boxing and an altercation in a German beer garden at Mulheim, patronized by actors and boxers, is said to have had much to do with his entrance into the profession of pugilism.

Meandering into the garden one day, Max ordered a scuffle of suds and Germany's national fodder—a limburger cheese sandwich.

Two guests, possibly a bit "high" after partaking of a few highballs, strenuously objected to Schmeling's nose-annoying sandwich, walked over to his table and told Max to get the place of the limburger or get hence pronto or they would toss him out personally. One, a huge colored man, and the other plainly an Englishman, started toward the bar when Max deliberately threw a gluey piece of cheese which struck the son of John Bull on the neck and slipped down his shirt collar.

The colored man, later identified as Rocky Knight, American heavy-weight darter at Max intent on mayhem or something equally unpleasant. The Englishman, a well-timed, named Bombardier Booth, intervened.

Booth then made a proposition. He offered to wager any sum Max would put up, that Schmeling, who was seventy pounds heavier and possessor of every physical advantage, could not strike him once within two minutes and he (Booth), would move no further than three feet from Schmeling at any time.

Knight grinned and offered to give Max odds of 3 to 2. The German bet all his fifty marks. Max thought the bet a cinch and told Booth he would try not to hurt him. A German kept time.

Fast, big fellow though he is, Max could neither catch nor strike the little fellow who deliberately stuck his face close to Schmeling's and made him miss by a foot. Max became infuriated as Booth bobbed, weaved, slipped and evaded him easily. The harder Max tried the wilder he got.

Wary and crestfallen as time was called, Schmeling's anger subsided when he discovered Booth and Knight were professional boxers.

Just before they parted, Booth presented Max with a book and told him that if he studied and practiced its contents, he would be able to strike Booth in a few seconds. It was entitled "How to Box," by Jim Driscoll.

Max translated it and six months later had the satisfaction of defeating Knight. Booth had died of influenza, preventing Max from settling his score with the Englishman.

Concluding its intercollegiate tennis competition this season with the imposing record of eleven victories and only one defeat, Antioch College's crack net team blanked Kenyon College netters, 6 to 0 in a match at Gambier, O., Saturday. Antioch made a clean sweep of the four singles and two doubles engagements with the loss of only two sets during the match.

The Merchants will play a two-game series with the bearded House of David team, world famous traveling baseball club, this week-end. Games will be played on both Saturday and Sunday afternoons, starting at 3 o'clock, and Manager Jess Charlbes was all players on his team to report at the park for practice at 6 p. m. Wednesday.

Returning to its early season form, the Red Wing Co. softball team of the National League here, scored a 9 to 0 shutout victory over an all-star softball team at Washington C. H. Sunday. Players picked from various clubs composed the Washington C. H. team. Bob Yeakley, who has been in a batting slump this season, came to life and smote a home run, triple and single. Fuller and Wakley hit triples.

Following their weekly custom, the Xenia Merchants did not play a scheduled game at Washington Park Sunday afternoon. Marking the second straight week the Xenia nine has been idle, a contest with the Dayton Tramps was called off because of rain.

ELEVEN NEW RECORDS MADE AT ANNUAL FIELD DAY EXERCISES

With a hot sun beaming down upon the contestants, 155 boys and 250 girls competed in the approximately seventy-five events comprising the athletic program staged in connection with fourth annual "Field Day" exercises at the O. S. and S. O. Home Saturday.

Eleven new records for "Field Day" were established in the track and field events and swimming, indicating the newly built 440-yard oval cinder track, used for the first time Saturday, will be the scene of many record-smashing performances in years to come when the surface hardens and becomes lightning fast.

The day's exercises were held under auspices of the Grand Volunte of Ohio, Boy and Girl Society of the American Legion, and the Home pupils competed for prizes valued at $200.

The athletic events, staged in the afternoon, were divided into four classes for both boys and girls, according to their age, the classes being for children 10 and 11 years old, 12 and 13 years, 14 and 15 years and 16, 17 and 18 years.

First place winners in each class were awarded bronze medals with contestants finishing second and third receiving ribbons. Cups were also presented to the girls and trophies to the boys who personally scored the most points in each class.

Three meet records were shattered in the class for boys aged 10 and 11, new marks being established as follows: fifty-yard dash, .62 seconds, broad jump, twelve feet, four inches; high jump, three feet, six inches. Annon Yeazell won first prize with 21½ points, while Frank Baileu was second with 14 and Harry Andritz third with 12.

Competition in the second class for boys aged 12 and 13 also produced three record-breaking exhibitions. David Deard, who won first prize with 22 points, set new mark of four feet for the high jump. John McDiarmid, second with 17 points, established a new record of fifteen feet, six inches in the broad jump, while Thaddeus Baileu, third with 16½ points broke the existing record for the fifty-yard dash, running the distance in six seconds flat.

New records for the high jump and baseball throw were set in the third class restricted to boys aged 14 and 15. Robert Jones, high with twenty-five points, scored the maximum number of points possible. He won the baseball throw, with record-shattering toss of 225 feet, copped the 440-yard dash in 1:6.6, accounted for the 100-yard free style swim in 1:17 and was a member of the two winning relay teams, the 440-yard running and the swimming teams. Harry Arthur, runnerup for individual honors with 22 points, took first places in the fifty, 100 and 220-yard dashes, while James Shriner, third with 21 points, was first in diving, placed on two winning relay teams and was second twice in swimming events. The new record of four feet, eight inches in the high jump was set by Lawrence Redding.

Paul Long, outstanding athlete in the meet, captured first prize in the fourth class for boys aged 16, 17 and 18 when he accumulated 24 points, taking first places in the 50, 100 and 220-yard dashes, the broad jump and being on the relay team which finished second. Long ran the fifty-yard dash in seconds for a new meet record, stepped the century in 10.8 over the soft track to tie the institution record and broke the meet broad jump mark with a leap of seven feet, three and one-half inches.

Three youths tied for second place, each scoring twenty points. Murray Jones won the forty-yard free style swim in 21.6 seconds, also the 100-yard free style event and was a member of the winning relay swimming team. Alton Snyder made his points with firsts, seconds and thirds in the dashes and plays, while Lee Wood took the 440-yard dash, was third in the broad jump and the hop, step and jump and was on the winning relay team.

Wolfe, Trumphour, King and Schick also performed well in this class, King accounting for the hop, step and jump with a mark of thirty-six feet, ten inches. Bernard McKinley, cadet major and letter man in three sports, set a new record in the shot put with a heave of thirty-five feet, one and one-half inches. The winning team's time of fifty-two seconds in the 440-yard relay race was considered good.

In the feminine division of the athletic carnival, Esther Hughes was the high point individual in the fourth class, Helen Shriner was the first prize winner in the second class and Kathryn Shriner was pronounced the best girl athlete in the first class. The third class for girls was called off for lack of entries to fill the various events.

Mr. Leham, an official of the Ohio State University, acted as field judge, and other Legionnaires performed in various official capacities. Fred P. Neff, physical director at the Home, was in general charge of the affair.

The morning program, starting at 10 o'clock, was devoted to an inspection of the cadet battalion and cottages with suitable trophies being awarded for the prize company and cadet captain and individual prizes to the three cadets showing to best advantage in competitive drill.

Cottage number 18, of which Miss Melba Ireland is supervisor, was adjudged the prize-winning boys' cottage, the boys ranging from 10 to 12 years in age. The prize girls' cottage was cottage number 2, Miss Lulu Hight is the cottage supervisor and the girls are 12 and 13 years of age.

Company "C" took first prize in the company inspection, Warren Yowell being the cadet captain, Robert Brown the first lieutenant and Lawrence Rhodes the second lieutenant.

Individual awards in competitive drill were awarded as follows: Walter Mills, first prize; Henry Shaeffer, second prize; Samuel Marton, third prize; Frederick Franks, best bugler.

The battalion inspection was conducted by three army officers, Capt. Dale Thibault, Capt. Oliver Gibson and Lt. Edward Marsh, assigned here by the adjutant general of Ohio. The three officers also sided the following judges in the cottage inspection: Lt. Perry D. Swindler, military instructor at the Home; Mrs. Emilie Wilesey, chief matron; Mrs. C. L. Darlington, wife of Attorney Darlington, and former Sheriff Ohmer Tate.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 15.—Slightly higher prices were recorded in the early trading today for a few of the popular automobile, motion picture and manufacturing stocks. The rails made an effort to follow through on Saturday's modest upturn, but were held back by lack of buying demand. Westinghouse was the weak spot in the electrical manufacturing group, dropping off 2 points in narrow trading. On the whole, the market was extremely dull and quiet, with professional guides the narrow movements of prices.

ACCUSE AUTOIST OF RECKLESS DRIVING

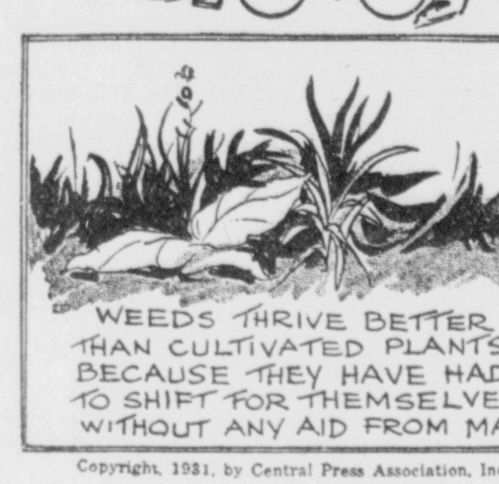

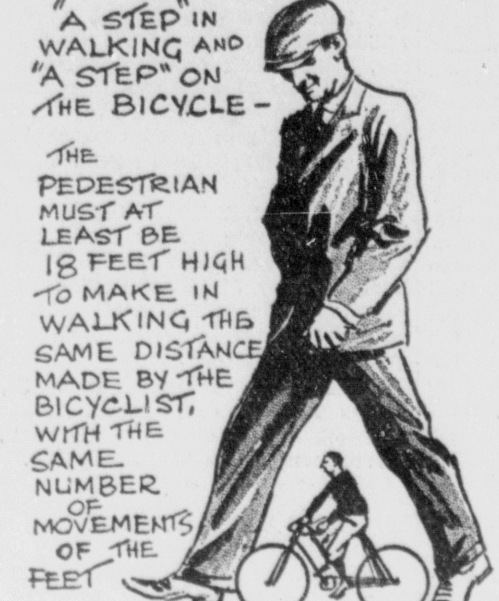

Noble Pace, Kennedy St., was ordered by Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Monday to appear in court at 9 a. m. Tuesday for a hearing on a reckless driving charge.

Alleged to have driven away after the mishap, Pace was arrested at his home at midnight and furnished bond for appearance in court Monday morning. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned.

Police charge that Pace, driving east, attempted to pass an auto on a bridge and collided with another car approaching from the opposite direction. The machine which Pace tried to pass was also involved in the mix-up. The autos were damaged to some extent.

The Theater

When Sylvia Sidney returns to the Paramount lot after completing the ingenue lead in "Street Scene," she will be reunited with Phillips Holmes for the third time. "Break-Up," a best seller by Hagar Wilde, has been purchased for these players. The other two in which they appeared together are: "An American Tragedy" and "Confessions of a Co-Ed." Miss Wilde's story has a New York background and dramatizes the effect of a large city on its inhabitants. Being so far in the future no supporting cast or director has been assigned.

Man I killed." Like many other players who had planned European jaunts and other vacations, Miss Sidney has had to cancel a trip to Hawaii because of her future work. She enjoyed a rest of ten days on a later.

Foremost among the newcomers in Hollywood is Karen Morley, who supplied a clever bit in "Inspiration" and recently finished her first big part in "Never The Twain Shall Meet." Apparently this "break" has established her, as Howard Hughes has borrowed her from Metro for "Scarface," in which she will play a gangster's moll. Paul Muni is the gangster. Ben Hecht is finishing the dialogue and Howard Hawks will direct.

After a long uphill battle for recognition, George Duryea seems started on a substantial film career. He has been signed to a long contract by Pathe to appear in a series of westerns. This is the lot that introduced him to pictures when Cecil B. DeMille cast him opposite Lina Basquette in "The Godless Girl." The new pictures are to be old-fashioned action melodramas, designed for the small town exhibitor. Duryea is to be given a new name for the series.

Everything points to Mary Brian becoming a Universal player as soon as Junior Laemmle returns were on luggage tags in the car and Coroner R. L. Haines, James town, notified Columbus police. Dr. Marshall Best, Xenia, was also summoned.

At the direction of the coroner, the bodies were taken in charge by R. M. Neeld, Xenia funeral director, and removed to Xenia. Coroner Haines conducted an investigation and viewed the bodies at the Neeld funeral parlors. He gave a verdict of accidental deaths.

W. C. Sheppard, brother of James G. Sheppard, removed the bodies to Columbus Sunday afternoon. He said that his relatives had planned to leave home about 4 p. m. Sunday for Cincinnati, where Mrs. Sheppard was to board a train for Birmingham, Ala., to visit her mother, Mrs. Emma Thurston, and brother, Elmer Thurston.

The crash was heard by Miss Frances Grooms, operator of the village telephone exchange who conversed with the only eye-witness who gave her version of the accident.

Mr. Sheppard was for twenty years an employee of the cashier's department of the F. and R. Lazarus and Co., Columbus. He was a member of the Columbus Lodge of Masons, the Scottish Rite and Aladdin Temple Shrine. All three were members of the Crestview Presbyterian Church.

River country. When it arrives at Indianapolis late this afternoon it will have passed through sections of Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana—a daylight ride that affords Mr. Hoover opportunity to view a great section of the country hard-hit by the drought of last year, and a section, too, which visited upon the Republican party severe reverses in last November's congressional elections.

While the first major stop of the train was scheduled for Cincinnati this afternoon, presidential train rarely escape stopping at stations where inevitable crowds collect and no exception to this rule was expected today. Mr. Hoover will have an opportunity to see and be seen by considerable crowds of people during the next four days.

The present speaking trip is the first President Hoover has made away from the capital since last October, just before the congressional elections. At that time he visited Cleveland, Boston and the Carolinas. His speech in Indianapolis tonight on the business outlook will be the first extensive comment which he has made on this subject since he addressed the American Bankers Association in Cleveland ten months ago.

At that time he felt conditions were improving and he called the bankers to stand firm in the economic crisis and to discourage wage-cutting or deflation of labor.

Only a small party accompanied Mr. Hoover on his visit to the Middle West. In addition to Mrs. Hoover, there were Postmaster General Brown, generally regarded as the "political member" of the cabinet, Mrs. Brown, Assistant Secretary of Labor White, and the usual secretaries, aides, reporters and photographers.

Upon reaching Indianapolis late this afternoon, the President will be met by a committee and escorted to the home of Governor Harry G. Leslie, where a reception will be held for the Republican editors of the state and their wives, who are his hosts at tonight's banquet.

MARION, O., June 15.—The home town of Warren G. Harding today restlessly awaited the arrival here tomorrow of President Herbert Hoover and former President Calvin Coolidge for the dedication of the Harding Memorial tomb.

Officials of the Harding Memorial Association declared everything in readiness for the dedication.

which was expected to attract thousands of visitors.

School children, clad in white and singing "America," will welcome President Hoover to the city.

A military escort of several hundred Ohio National Guardsmen also will greet him when he leaves the presidential train.

After the President dedicates the tomb where the former President and Mrs. Harding are buried, the memorial will be formally accepted for the state of Ohio by Governor George White.

The tomb, built from funds raised by popular subscription, was visited by thousands of tourists yesterday.

DEATH BY DROWNING CLAIMS FIVE LIVES AMONG SUNDAY TOLL

He sought refuge from the storm under a tree.

A 75-year-old man was accused of the stabbing of Adam Haag, 26, who was killed during a scuffle at Hamilton. Police held William Reed, grandfather of a youth with whom Haag had been fighting, for investigation.

Enraged because, he said, he had been "double crossed" about his room and board, Herbert Frye, 67, shot and killed Mrs. Ella Rose Solley Martin, 34, his landlady, at Cincinnati, according to police.

During a fight with a woman at her home, Frank Mitchell, 28, Columbus Negro, was stabbed with a long knife and bled to death. The woman said she tried to protect herself after she had been knocked down three times.

Owen Hall, 32, son of the former city manager of Gallipolis, was shot in the back at Crown City, on the Ohio River road, in a mysterious slaying. Authorities held Hazel Dillon, 17, and Bethel Moore, 24, who, it was said, were with Hall when he was shot.

Losing a race with a passenger train, all three members of a Columbus family were killed at a railroad crossing in Spring Valley.

Mrs. Helen Kirby and her father, James G. Sheppard, were taking Mrs. Sheppard to Cincinnati where she planned to leave by train for Birmingham, Ala., when their machine was hurled against a signal pole.

While John Harmon, 29, of Gary, Ind., was walking along the highway near Alliance, he was struck and fatally hurt by a car driven by E. A. Allman, Crystal Springs, O., farmer. Allman said he was blinded by light of other cars and was released.

A fractured skull caused the death of Claude Johnson, 37, of Springfield, after a collision near London, O., in which three others were hurt.

Fred Steinmetz of Lancaster, the driver of the other car, his wife, Lucy Steinmetz, and Johnson's wife all were injured.

A Hamilton Man, Frank F. Brunner, died in a physician's office in Cincinnati after his car skidded off the highway near Mt. Healthy and overturned. Robert Herzog, 21, and John Connaughton, 22, also of Hamilton, were seriously injured.
